

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

HOLLAND SOCIETY HAD FINE TRIP TO KINGSTON.

TWENTY-FOUR of the Albany County members of The Holland Society of New York enjoyed the hospitality of William B. Elmendorf, Vice-President of the Society, in a thoroughly delightful trip to Kingston Point and to many of the interesting points in that vicinity on June 1, 1907.

It was through the courtesy of President E. E. Olcott, of the Hudson River Day Line, that the pleasurable affair took place, for he tendered to Mr. Elmendorf, as Vice-President of the Society, the services of the line for the entertainment of his guests.

The party left Albany, N. Y., at 8.30 in the morning, arriving at Kingston Point after a delightful sail on the steamer New York. Here a special trolley car was in waiting and when all had boarded it a fine ride about Kingston was enjoyed. A stop was made at the Old Senate House and here a brief time was allowed to inspect the antiques and relics of other days to be found there. There was much of interest to the members of The Holland Society in the Senate House. The party was next conducted to the Dutch Reformed Church, which stands on historic ground. This church, of modern construction, occupies a part of the ground on which stood one of the first churches in the historic city. It is said to be one of the most beautiful churches, from an architectural standpoint, in this country. After this the Albanians walked about that section of the city, seeing many of the old stone houses that withstood the baptism of fire many years ago, when the city was burned by the British.

The time was becoming short and at 1.30 the party was obliged to leave and get aboard the trolley car to return to Kingston Point.

Here the Hendrick Hudson, the handsome new steamer of the Hudson River Day Line, was in waiting for the party and to make its first up-trip of the season. The steamer was gay with varicolored flags and as she passed along every craft with a steam whistle saluted many times. A tempting dinner was served on the up-trip, luncheon being served on the trip down, so that no time would be lost at Kingston.

On the way up the river Mr. Elmendorf showed his guests over the new Hendrick Hudson, taking them through every part from the fire and engine rooms to the pilot-house. Those who saw the Hendrick Hudson when it ran to Albany last August, then in an unfinished condition, marveled at the beautiful decorations, the finishing of many details which add to the comfort or the pleasure of those who sail up and down the Hudson. Nothing seems to have been left undone, in fact the traveller's wants have been anticipated and his comfort amply provided for.

A special orchestra furnished the music.

THE GUESTS.

The following members of The Holland Society were invited to take the trip:

Albert Van Voast Bensen, Abraham Van Dyke De Witt, Peter Deyo, William Burgess Elmendorf, Douw Henry Fonda, Edward Anson Groesbeck, Edmund Niles Huyck, Francis Conklin Huyck, Gerrit Yates Lansing, Isaac De Freest Lansing, John Townsend Lansing, Richard Lansing, Edward Henry Leggett, Robert Clarence Pruyn, William Nicoll Sill Sanders, James Ten Eyck, Garret Adam Van Allen, Cornelius Henry Van Antwerp, Thomas Irwin Van Antwerp, Albert Vander Veer, M.D., Albert Vander Veer, Jr., M.D., Edgar Albert Vander Veer, M.D., James Newell Vander Veer, M.D., George Clark Van Deusen, Charles Manning Van Heusen, Morton Van Loon, John Loucks Van Valkenburgh, Jasper Van Wormer, Edward Willett Visscher, Charles Knickerbocker Winne, Charles Visscher Winne, Charles Edward Whitbeck, Cohoes, N. Y.; William Henry Slingerland, Slingerland, N. Y.; David H. Van Auken, Cohoes, N. Y.; Daniel Lewis Van Antwerp, Loudonville, N. Y.; Stephen Schuyler, Watervliet, N. Y.

Also some gentlemen eligible for membership and as a special guest Mr. S. L. Munson, Regent of Philip Livingston Chapter Sons of the Revolution.

President Frank Hasbrouck, of Poughkeepsie, met the party at Kingston Point, went with them about Kingston, and to Albany.

As the steamer was nearing Albany, President Frank Hasbrouck called the Albany members of The Holland Society together and expressed his pleasure at meeting them. He also told of his appreciation of the courtesy of the Vice-President. A vote of thanks was extended to the officers of the Day Line and to Mr. Elmendorf. Mr. Elmendorf made a brief response.

As the steamer neared the wharf at Albany greetings were exchanged and many promises made the Vice-President for renewed energy in increasing the membership in Albany County. The weather was exceptionally fine and the outing proved a real delight for the officers and members participating.

The following resolution was adopted by the trustees of The Holland Society at their June meeting, 1907:

RESOLVED, That the thanks of The Holland Society be tendered to Wm. Burgess Elmendorf, its Vice-President for Albany County, and to E. E. Olcott, the President and General Manager of the Hudson River Day Line, for their courtesy and hospitality, extended to The Holland Society, through its officers and the Albany County members, on the first day of June, 1907, by means of a trip to Kingston upon the fine steamers of that line; and that the Secretary be instructed to include an account of the expedition in the Year Book and send complimentary copies to Messrs. Elmendorf and Olcott, and that they be made guests of honor at the next annual dinner of the Society.

THE VISIT OF HER NETHERLANDS MAJESTY'S STEAM CRUISER "GEL-DERLAND" TO THE UNITED STATES, JUNE, 1907.

AFTER leaving the neighborhood of Jamestown, where she had joined in the tercen-tennial celebration of its settlement, the Gelderland came to New York Harbor about June 22, 1907. The officers were entertained by the St. Nicholas Society at the University Club, Monday evening, June 24th, between thirty and forty being present. Capt. van Asbeck was kept away by illness.

Warner Van Norden, one of the trustees and an ex-President of The Holland Society, invited the trustees of The Holland Society to meet the officers of the Gelderland at dinner, at the Metropolitan Club, Fifth Avenue and Sixtieth Street, at eight o'clock, Wednesday evening, June 26, 1907.

After a brief reception, during which they took the opportunity to become acquainted, the guests seated themselves at a large oval table in the adjoining room. On the right of Mr. Van Norden sat Capt. W. H. D. Baron van Asbeck, and, continuing around the table, next sat Rear-Admiral Joseph B. Coghlan, Hon. John W. Vrooman,
Lieut. M. H. Halewyn, Consul-General John Rutger Planten, Justice Garret J. Garretson, Lieut.

K. A. Telders, Secretary Henry L. Bogert, Max L. Van Norden, Lieut. O. D. T. de Ridder, Henry T. Bronson, H. Van Wie, Hon. Tunis G. Bergen, Dr. B. Van Utteren, James Talcott, Wm. F. Havemeyer and N. F. Dykema; and on the left of Mr. Van Norden sat Major-Gen. Frederick D. Grant, ex-Judge Augustus Van Wyck, Lieut. P. H. D. Schuttervaer, Capt. C. W. Jungen, ex-Justice George M. Van Hoesen, Warner M. Van Norden, Dr. J. B. Devins, Lieut. O. Bender, President Frank Hasbrouck, G. H. Poolman, Consul Henry Pluygers, Rev. Dr. A. E. Kittredge, Theodore M. Banta, J. C. This was set forth upon souvenir menu cards joined by red, white, and blue ribbon bows, ornamented by the crossed flags of the United States and the Netherlands and inscribed: "In Honor of the Commander and Officers of Her Majesty's Cruiser Gelderland, New York, 26th June, 1907."

With the advent of the cigars, the host arose and in a few words of welcome referred to the pleasant relations between those assembled before him and their respective nations and gave a toast to Queen Wilhelmina, which was responded to with enthusiasm, all rising to their feet and cheering. The following telegram from President Roosevelt was then read and was made the occasion for a similar toast and similar enthusiasm.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., 26th June, 1907.

MR. WARNER VAN NORDEN,
786 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Thru you I desire to convey hearty greetings to the guests at your dinner to-night.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Consul-General Planten responded on behalf of the President and expressed his keen appreciation of the friendship which was thus signalized and emphasized. The health of Capt. van Asbeck was next proposed and, after expressing his regret that illness had prevented him from doing better justice to the occasion, he responded fittingly and with terms of grateful acknowledgment. Judge Van Hoesen was next called upon to describe the attitude of The Holland Society with reference to such occasions and the cause of its establishment, which he did with great satisfaction to his hearers. Admiral Coghlan, though referring to himself as "a dead admiral," gave convincing evidence of possessing all the attributes of vigorous life and was loudly applauded throughout his remarks. He was followed by General Grant, whose reference to the contrast between the army and navy was well received. President Hasbrouck responded for The Holland Society and enlarged upon the pleasure which all experienced in entertaining their guests from "the Mother Country" and described the continuous hospitality which had marked The Holland Society's trip to Holland in 1888. Judge Van Wyck spoke to an applauding audience, who re-echoed his words of regard for Dutch history and principles. Col. Vrooman added a few words of laudation and of gratitude that Dutch blood ran so strongly in his veins. Ex-President Van Wormer then rose and expressed the thanks of the guests to their host of the evening and evoked the unanimous expression of their gratitude, which was immediately followed by singing of the Dutch song Piet Hein, also So Say We All of Us, and For He Is a Jolly Good Fellow. A few words followed from Consul Pluygers and a final word from Capt. van Asbeck, after which the company broke up with more greetings and expressions of friendship and adjurations to be surely present on Saturday afternoon on the Gelderland.

Just as the guests had taken their places at the table a photograph was taken by flashlight.

Additional "Gelderland" Memorandum.

The long room on the William Street side of "Delmonico's Downtown," was more than filled by the enthusiastic guests of Consul-General Plan-ten at luncheon, June 28, 1907. In addition to the long table, stretching from end to end of the apartment, an additional table was required in the roomiest corner. Here Consul-General Planten greeted his guests and dilated upon the exceedingly pleasant relations between Holland and the United States, expressing gratification that his guests had responded in such numbers, and chagrin that the room was not larger and more comfortable.

Capt. van Asbeck was found upon the right of Mr. Planten, followed by Warner Van Norden, Secretary Bogert, James B. Van Woert, and others representing the Dutch merchants, as well as the officers of the Gelderland, and of The Holland and St. Nicholas Societies. On the left of Mr. Planten sat Stuyvesant Fish and other similar representatives; immediately opposite sat W. L. Van Sinderen of Brooklyn, upon whose right were Hon. Tunis G. Bergen and others, and upon his left, an officer of the Gelderland, followed by James W. Beekman, Attaché van Heemstede, and other similar representatives, including Capt. Van Schoonhoven, John G. Prager, D. G. Boissevain, and others.

As this approached its last item, Consul-General Planten arose and in warm terms of appreciation and eulogy referred to the regard which was everywhere felt and expressed for the "Queen of Hearts," Wilhelmina of Holland, and proposed her health. All present rose and remained standing. Capt. van Asbeck replied gratefully on behalf of his sovereign and ended by proposing the health of "The President," whose name alone, he said, had been twice mentioned at the opening of the Peace Conference in The Hague. A second outburst of applause, and "Health to His Excellency," was drunk standing. Mr. Van Sinderen, taking up the thread of oratory, in well-chosen words referred to that proof of early achievement which still remained in the phrase, "That beats the Dutch," and gave the health of Capt. van Asbeck and his companions. In reply Capt. van Asbeck retaliated by expressing his conviction that in later days the expression would change so as to refer to the United States and its achievements and be quoted, "That beats the Yankees." (At this point the Secretary had to leave and keep an engagement elsewhere.) The invitation was as follows:

After being entertained by their friends in New York, the officers of the Gelderland held a reception on board, Saturday, June 29th, sending invitations to The Holland Society, the St. Nicholas Society, the Netherland Club, the Holland-America Line, and the Old Merchants of New York. The invitations received by The Holland Society were as follows:

THE CAPTAIN AND OFFICERS OF HER NETHERLANDS MAJESTY'S CRUISER "GELDERLAND" REQUEST THE HONOR OF YOUR COMPANY AND THAT OF THE LADIES TO WHOM YOU MAY EXTEND THIS INVITATION
ON THE AFTERNOON OF SATURDAY, THE TWENTY-NINTH OF JUNE
FROM FOUR UNTIL SEVEN O'CLOCK
ON BOARD THE "GELDERLAND."

Launches will leave half hourly from the foot of seventy-ninth Street, North River. Kindly present this card to the officers in charge of the launches.

A launch with a large tender was provided at the foot of West 79th Street, and by this means the guests were transported to the Gelderland. As the hour approached, atmospheric conditions were threatening, but the earlier arrivals were not incommoded by the rain, which later came down in annoying abundance.

Mr. Poolman was detailed to meet the guests as they arrived at the riverside and placed them in charge of officers who accompanied them to the vessel, where Commander van Asbeck, Captain Van Schoonhoven, and the other officers received them. Commander van Asbeck was unfortunately still suffering from sciatica and was obliged to keep his seat for a large part of the time, but his hospitable intentions were well carried out and the two hundred guests were well cared for as long as they remained on board.

Lieutenant Schuttervaer, at the head of the engineers, and incidentally in charge of the torpedoes, was a most entertaining guide to all parts of the boat. Others were efficient aides and none of the visitors who were willing to ask were denied the privilege of seeing the interesting points of the foreign cruiser.

There would have been dancing on board, for which music was excellently provided by the combined bands from the Holland-America Line and from the Gelderland, but the screens of sail cloth, which were improvised to shut out the rain, prevented much that would otherwise have been employed for the entertainment of the young men and maidens, as well as their elders, who were all enthusiastic in enjoying everything to the full.

A bountiful luncheon was served in the rooms of the petty officers, on the main deck, and in the Captain's room. In fact, those who were so fortunate and so superior to weather conditions as to be present, found that provision had been made for twice as many as came, and were urged to make up for their absent brethren. All were profuse in praising the hospitality of their hosts, whose efforts to save their guests from the rain by lending overcoats, umbrellas, and other temporary protection could not have been excelled.

Various private entertainments were interspersed among those of more public nature and one of the invitations is reproduced below.

Owing to the short time at command of the officers, a luncheon which was to take place upon Monday was somewhat informally carried out. Three invitations to The Holland Society were sent to the President at New York City, and reached the Secretary, by the efforts of the Post-Office Department, rather late upon Monday.

Foreseeing the possible delay the officers took the precaution of sending verbal invitations by means of those who attended the reception on Saturday, so that the later written invitations might be still considered sufficiently formal. Three from The Holland Society, and three from each of the St. Nicholas Society, the Netherland Club, the Holland-America Line, and from the Old Merchants of New York, were invited, and the Consul-General was, of course, included with his staff.

After some difficulty, the Secretary succeeded in getting into telephone communication with President Hasbrouck on Sunday evening, but was so unfortunate as to find him unable to attend the luncheon. Messages to Trustee Bergen, to Treasurer Van Brunt, and to others were also unsuccessful, but the personal invitation to Trustee Van Woert had been accepted.

The St. Nicholas Society was also unable to take full advantage of the proffered hospitality, and consequently the representatives of these two societies were President Austen G. Fox, Secretary Bogert, and Trustee Van Woert.

The launch was in readiness and the trip to the vessel under sunny skies was an auspicious beginning of the entertainment. In the chief dining-room Commander van Asbeck was attended by Lieutenant Schuttervaer, Dr. Van Utteren, and Lieutenants de Ridder and Telders, and their table companions were President Fox of St. Nicholas, and Secretary Bogert of The Holland Society, President Boissevain of the Netherland Club, Consul-General Planten, and Vice-President Gips of the Holland-America Line. The menu was as follows:

In the other cabin, Capt. Van Schoonhoven presided over the other officers and guests. During the progress of the lunch, Capt. van Asbeck rose and drank the health of Her Majesty, Queen Wilhelmina, which was enthusiastically applauded. The Consul-General then gave the health of President Roosevelt. To neither of these toasts was there any lengthy response or formal remarks. The following cable dispatch was then sent to Queen Wilhelmina:

HER MAJESTY, QUEEN OF HOLLAND, HAGUE:

Many old Hollanders, representatives of St. Nicholas Society—Holland Society—Netherlands Club—Holland-America Line, assembled on board your Majesty's Cruiser Gelderland, Commander and Officers of said Cruiser, all join in most respectful expression of love for House of Orange and homage to your Majesty.

Consul-General PLANTEN
Captain VAN ASBECK.

The following reply was received later in the day:

's GRAVENHAGE, July 1, 1907.

PLANTEN, CONSUL-GENERAL NETHERLANDS, NEW YORK:

Her Majesty the Queen asks me to send her most true thanks.

Aide-de-Camp SCHIMMELPENNINCK.

President Fox of the St. Nicholas Society spoke informally for the societies, and Secretary Bogert, of The Holland Society, spoke for the universally expressed wish of New York that the Gelderland might return and take part in the Hudson Tercentennial Celebration in 1909. Mr. Boissevain spoke for the Dutch-American residents and Commander van Asbeck, leading his table companions into the larger cabin, spoke there for the Dutch in general and their appreciation of the hospitality which they had received, to which a fitting response on behalf of the United States was made by Consul-General Planten.

After the hospitality of the vessel had been extended to the utmost, the hour of departure arrived, and the Consul-General with several of the other guests drew away from the Gelderland in the launch which was to separate friends of old and new standing for years and perhaps forever.

When the little boat was a hundred yards from the cruiser, a salute of eleven guns was fired in honor of the Consul-General, to which he responded with a final wave of his hat and the exchange of ceremonies and courtesies were brought to a close.

The Holland Society and the St. Nicholas Society received several invitations from Attaché I. L. van den Berch van Heemstede to a déjeuner on Sunday, June 30th, at Sherry's. It was unfortunate that so many were unable to accept this hospitable invitation, but among the guests from The Holland Society was John R. Van Buskirk, who described his enviable experience to those who were absent.

In token of regard for their visitors, The Holland Society sent to the Gelderland, in care of Captain van Asbeck, a set of Year Books, beginning with 1887, and a full set of their last four souvenirs (the Friesland medals and the Beggar's Penny), which appeared to excite the keenest interest. This example was followed by the St. Nicholas Society, which sent a copy of the medal which was recently struck to commemorate the 250th Anniversary of the City Government of New York. Each guest of the Gelderland on Monday, July 1st, received a little souvenir, like an aluminium postal card, upon which the cruiser was portrayed with the autograph of her commander.

On Tuesday, July 2d, the order to weigh anchor brought the visit to an end, and the Gelderland followed her predecessor, the Van Speyk, out of the Narrows, bearing similar memories of the good fellows on both sides.

The Gelderland was next heard from while at St. Eustatius and the following correspondence is part of the annals of The Holland Society.

H. M. "GELDERLAND," Nov. 16th—07—ST. EUSTATIUS.

DEAR MR. BOGAERT:

I have a great pleasure in offering you some cards with the fort and flagstaff at St. Eustatius, which were the first to salute the U. S. flag, as the Andrea Doria dropped her anchor in the roadstead, Nov. 16, 1776. I leave to you to make the use of them you think best and remain, dear sir, with many compliments to your directors and fellow-members,

Yours very sincerely,

BARON W. D. H. VAN ASBECK,
Capt. Commanding H. N. M. Gelderland,

Netherland (Dutch) West Indies.

MY DEAR BARON VAN ASBECK:

It was very kind of you to remember the Holland Society on that most interesting anniversary of the first salute to our Nation's flag, November 16, 1776, at St. Eustatius. It was a most gratifying instance of your thoughtfulness and conferred great pleasure upon all of us who remembered the pleasant meetings with you and your entertaining companions.

I sent copies of the pictures to President Hasbrouck, of the Holland Society, and gave others to President Fox, of the St. Nicholas Society, both of whom beg that they may be remembered to you and your officers with this letter.

Hoping that it may find you all in good health and strength, and that the future may bring back the Gelderland and its company of good fellows to our shores at an early day, believe me,

Yours very truly,

HENRY L. BOGERT,

Secretary.

EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL DINNER OF THE
POUGHKEEPSIE DISTRICT MEMBERS OF THE HOLLAND SOCIETY OF NEW YORK.

THE Relief of Leyden had its 333d anniversary celebration at Poughkeepsie on the evening of October 3, 1907, when twenty members of The Holland Society gathered around the long table in the special dining-room of the Nelson House, at Poughkeepsie. Irving Elting, Vice-President of the Society for Dutchess County, by prerogative sat at the head of the table and on his right sat Hon. Frank Hasbrouck, President of the Society (signaling the first occasion when the President of the Society was one of the home contingent), followed by the Secretary, Jesse Elting, William A. Adriance, Joseph E. Hasbrouck, Perry Deyo, Dr. J. Wilson Poucher, Henry B. Bevier, Theodore Van Kleeck, I. Reynolds Adriance, Charles G. Douw, Jacob Elting, H. Bowman Le Fever, Martin Heermance, Abram P. Lefevere, Edward T. Hulst, George S. Van Vliet, E. Covert Hulst, and Treasurer Van Brunt, who sat at the left of toastmaster Elting. Two or three were late in arriving, but took none the less interest in the proceedings and the occasion was one of the jolliest of this long series of family reunions.

The menu was as follows:

The appearance of "Hutspot" was greeted with applause as usual and the President felicitated the members upon the great success which had been achieved in this special dish, which had endeared it to the Dutchess County members.

After the coffee and cigars, Vice-President Elting arose and, greeting the company with congratulations upon their recurring celebration of the inspiring historical event, now nearly a third of a millennium in the past, called their attention to the present and its inspiring events and prospects, and touched upon the honor which the neighborhood had appreciated in the selection of their honored fellow-townsman, Hon. Frank Hasbrouck, to be President of The Holland Society for the current year.

President Hasbrouck thereupon expressed his keen appreciation of the honor which had come to him and to his fellow-citizens in his person, and described the duties and functions of the office which he occupied, noting with much pleasure the hospitality which had been continually extended by sister societies at their annual celebrations.

The widespread influence of The Holland Society and the applications which were made in various parts of the world to the officers of the Society in hope of obtaining eleemosynary or other assistance, and the need for setting the objects of the Society correctly before the people, became the occasion for some commendatory remarks aimed at the Secretary, followed by some justifiable inquiry as to the whereabouts of the Year Book. It was evident that this touched a popular chord and the Secretary was warned to be ready with his explanation in a short time.

The toastmaster then called upon the Treasurer for a few remarks, reminding those before him that no matter how late the Year Book might be, the communication from the Treasurer, which requested each member to call at the captain's office and settle for the year's dues, was never far behind its usual date of issue. Mr. Van Brunt then faced his body of contributors and, treating his duties in a jocular vein, strove to make it appear that the work which he had performed so well was largely a matter of routine, not burdensome upon the intellect. He felt impelled to remark that out of town checks were still expected to carry with them enough additional funds to cover customary exchange fees.

The toastmaster then mentioned the objects which the Society had stood for, among others, the proposed statue to William the Silent, and introducing the Secretary, hoped that he would, in the course of his remarks, pay some attention to that subject. Naturally enough, when the Secretary got on his feet, the subject of the statue faded from his mind and the non-appearance of the Year Book was the principal subject dwelt upon. Upon being reminded of this lapse of memory, he touched upon the services rendered to the cause by Dr. Roosa, the chairman of the committee having in charge the erection of the statue to William the Silent, and reported that Dr. Roosa had continually reported progress in the right direction, but that the amount to be raised was large and still lacked considerable of completion.

The toastmaster took up the subject and read a letter from Dr. Roosa, describing the fund that had been raised and its application up to date, and enclosing a letter from the sculptor, Henry M. Shrady, which was well received, together with photographs of the statue as now modeled.

After the applause which greeted this report had subsided, Vice-President Elting called for a report from New Paltz, where a committee, headed by Vice-President Jesse Elting, had undertaken to place a memorial of the twelve original patentees of New Paltz, and had raised by popular subscription the necessary amount to carry the matter completely through. A large photograph, which was passed around, showed a rough natural stone base, untouched by the hammer, about seven feet square and about four feet high, upon which was reared a natural monolith about eleven feet high and three feet by four in breadth and thickness. The monolith was dressed only enough to give a firm footing upon the base, and again where a bronze tablet was let into one face, bearing the names of the patentees. The remarks of the New Paltz representative were received with great satisfaction.

The toastmaster then called upon the new members to respond and, at their request, took the will for the deed and substituted a short account by the Secretary, describing the recent visit of the Gelderland to the port of New York, with the attendant festivities and entertainments.

Next the toastmaster called upon two favored and popular sons of Poughkeepsie, the Messrs. Adriance, and elicited a short but appropriate response from the elder brother and a few corroborative remarks from the younger.

Finally, the chairman called upon one who was referred to as a member from whom the company always might expect something interesting and entertaining, which was well justified by the remarks with which Martin Heermance closed the speechmaking. By request, which was made insistent, President Hasbrouck then favored the company with Cockles and Mussels, in which he was joined enthusiastically by all present as often as the chorus began. The last act was the singing of Auld Lang Syne by all the company with hands joined around the table.

FIFTH ANNUAL SMOKER.

THE "Smoker" or informal meeting of The Holland Society for 1907 was held on Tuesday evening, November 26th, at the Hotel Astor, using the main hall room and the large room adjoining. Upwards of 330 members and their guests were present, making the attendance slightly larger than that of last year. If many more had come, it would have resulted in some crowding, but as it was everyone appeared to have room enough and enjoyed everything. The Society banner hung at the front of the hall room, flanked by large American flags, and on each side were the Dutch flags, red, white, and blue and orange, white, and blue, to keep in mind the colors of the olden times.

A little before 9 o'clock, the members having exchanged greetings and discussed the prosperous condition of the Society, the President came forward upon the platform and greeted them as follows:

I am "delighted."

When I see this room filled with you good fellows of our Society it does my heart good.

When I was elected last April to the office of President of this Society I then told you that it was the most desired distinction of my life, and now to-night when I look over this audience I am prouder than ever of being President of such a Society.

The arduous, but somewhat pleasant, duties of President of The Holland Society so far have consisted mostly in attending the dinners of our sister societies.

I have faithfully performed that duty and as I am moderately robust and blessed with a fair digestion I hope I may survive the ordeal.

I want to say to you that my observation of other societies confirms me in the conviction that The Holland Society is the best and grandest of them all, not only in numbers, but in the personality and characteristics of its membership.

You will remember that I said to you at the time of my inauguration as President in April last that it was my ambition to see the Society grow during my year's incumbency of the office to at least one thousand in membership. It has been growing finely, but we should have before the year closes at least fifty more new members and I hope that you will all get busy and will see that this is an accomplished fact before next April.

On one of those rainy days about a week ago when the streets were as dirty and muddy as the people of New York were despondent and mad, one of your business men was rushing downtown to withdraw his deposits from his solvent Trust Company to place them in his box in his solvent Safe Deposit Company. He dove into a subway entrance and his feet slipping from under him he slid down the steps on his back. Part of the way down he overtook a woman, tripped her up, and she rode the rest of the way in his lap. At the bottom she seemed to have no inclination to arise, when he addressed her very politely saying: "Excuse me, madam, but this is as far as I go."

This is not the occasion for serious talk.

We have met here for sociability and a good time.

The President then stated that the rest of the evening would be devoted to vaudeville entertainment prepared by the committee, and called upon the Secretary to announce the program, which,

with sundry alterations made necessary by circumstances, was as follows:

Songs and dances—By THE AUSTIN SISTERS.

Songs and imitations—By THOMAS POTTER DUNNE.

Soprano ballads—By MISS LOUISE BREHANY.

Songs of his own composition—By RAYMOND A. BROWNE.

Original songs—By MISS JENNIE ANDRIETTA.

The program gave much satisfaction and the audience appeared to enjoy it more and more as it drew to the end. The performers, who were furnished by Messrs. Hurtig & Seamon, were equally inspired by the appreciation of the audience, and the accompanist was manifestly satisfactory to all.

A collation was served in the highly satisfactory and orderly manner that has marked The Holland Society's entertainments at the Hotel Astor.

The time to break up came all too soon and some were obliged to hurry in order to catch the last trains to their homes. Delegations from Poughkeepsie, from Kingston, from Hackensack, as well as from nearer places, were noticeable by their numbers.

THE TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL BANQUET

THE Twenty-third Annual Banquet of The Holland Society was an exceedingly gratifying success.

There were about three hundred and seventy members and guests present. The usual arrangement of the grand ballroom at the Waldorf-Astoria was made, placing the guests of the Society, with the speakers, on the right and left of President Frank Hasbrouck, opposite the main entrance to the room. From this stretched nine long tables occupied by members of the Society and their friends.

The boxes were well filled and were so attractive that they recalled the brilliant allusion of a recent speaker who referred to his auditors as "men who were created a little lower than the angels," whereat those seated at the tables smiled appreciatively and the occupants of the boxes blushed and tried to look unconscious.

Following the plan which has been found successful in the past, all but the guests and speakers were requested to take their allotted places first, and then the procession was formed which filled the places at the guest table as follows: Hon. Frank Hasbrouck, President of The Holland Society, escorted Hon. Charles W. Eliot, LL.D.,

President of Harvard University, and seated him upon his right; then came James de la Montanye, Treasurer of the Empire State Society, Sons of the American Revolution, escorted by Moses J. De Witt, Vice-President of The Holland Society for Essex County, New Jersey, and occupied a seat on the extreme right of the President; next came John Lloyd Thomas, President of St. David's Society, escorted by Hon. Garret J. Garretson, Justice of the Supreme Court and ex-President of The Holland Society; the next seat was occupied by Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, D.D., of the Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn, who was to be the first speaker in response to the formal toasts; next was I. E. Grote Higgins, President of St. George's Society, escorted by J. Maus Schermerhorn; Major-General Charles F. Roe, Governor of the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of New York, escorted by Dr. Byron G. Van Horne, and Robert Frater Munro, President of St. Andrew's Society, escorted by John B. Elmendorf.

On the left of the President was Hon. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, Lieutenant-Governor of New York State, escorted by William L. Brower, Trustee of The Holland Society; Stephen Farrelly, President of the Society of Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, escorted by Hon. John W. Vrooman, Trustee and ex-President of The Holland Society; Lieutenant-Colonel Allan C. Bakewell, President of the Pennsylvania Society, escorted by Hon. Augustus Van Wyck, Trustee and ex-President of The Holland Society; Hon. Charles E. Littlefield, member of Congress from Maine, escorted by Hon. John R. Van Wormer, Chairman of the Dinner Committee, and also Trustee and ex-President of The Holland Society; Charles A. Schermerhorn, First Vice-President of the St. Nicholas Society, escorted by James B. Van Woert, Trustee of The Holland Society; Hon. John R. Planten, Consul-General of the Netherlands, escorted by E. Covert Hulst, and Cornelius B. Mitchell, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Huguenot Society, escorted by Hon. Tunis G. Bergen, Trustee and ex-President of The Holland Society.

When all had taken their seats, the President called for silence and Rev. Albert A. Zabriskie was invited to ask a blessing upon the occasion. The feast then began and well justified the commendation given by those who were well accustomed to such feasts as well as those who made The Holland Society Banquet an unusual treat.

A characteristic Dutch scene was idealized upon the front of the menu and the bronze souvenir was reproduced upon the back. Across the inside was reproduced a photograph of a remarkable group of mills and water scenery in Holland named Molen-groep, Koog an der Zaan, showing nineteen wind-mills and one steam mill, illustrating the adaptation of the forces of nature contrasted with more artificial forces devised by man.

The souvenirs were triangular bronze ash receivers, bearing a small reproduction of the seal of The Holland Society embossed in the center. In addition to these, which might be called the regular souvenirs, there were also distributed copies of "Sancte Claus, goed heylic Man," reproduced from the August, 1907, number of Olde Ulster, a historical magazine published in Kingston, N. Y., devoted to Ulster County. The management of the Waldorf provided most attractive souvenir boxes, in which was served the sorbet, showing in high relief a comfortable looking Dutchman, seated at his ease, with pipe in hand, at peace with the world.

The President wielded a gavel which was made from a beam of the old North Dutch Church, corner of Fulton and William streets, New York, presented to The Holland Society of New York by John W. Van de Water, August, 1890.

INTRODUCTORY ADDRESS BY THE PRESIDENT.

PRESIDENT FRANK HASBROUCK: Ladies, your good health! Representatives of sister societies, and others, our guests, we welcome you! Fellow members of The Holland Society, I greet you!

We are here, because we are here—and because we are:

“The descendants in the direct male line of a Dutchman who was a native or resident of New York or of the American colonies prior to the year 1675”; including:

“those of other former nationalities who found in Holland a refuge or a home, and whose descendants in the male line came to this country as Dutch settlers speaking Dutch as their native tongue”;

and:

“descendants in the male line of Dutch settlers who were born within the limits of Dutch settlements, and the descendants in the male line of persons who possessed the right of Dutch citizenship within Dutch settlements in America prior to the year 1675”—the date of the final transfer by treaty of this Dutch colony to English domination.

We celebrate ourselves because we are the lineal male descendants of the early founders of our great Empire State.

Doubtless there were other great and good men in those early days beside our ancestors, but we are not talking about them. We are like the little boy who on his first attending Sunday School was asked by his teacher: "Who was the first man?" He promptly answered: "George Washington." When the teacher corrected him and told him it was Adam, the bright boy replied that he did not suppose she was speaking of foreigners. (Laughter.)

With my well-known conscientious performance of every duty imposed upon me as your President, I have lately been "taking a course" of dinners of our sister societies. I have eaten "haggis" with the Scotch of St. Andrew's, and "scrapple" with those other foreigners of the Pennsylvania Society—and I still live. (Laughter.)

I have heard the claims made at these various dinners by the members of these different societies, who seemed particularly proud to have left their own country or state to come and get a slice of our prosperity, that they were the cause instead of the result, were the makers instead of the beneficiaries, of our greatness.

Each of the five hundred people present at the 102d Annual Dinner of the New England Society, held in this room the other night, must have gone away convinced that their ancestors had originally discovered and settled this island, instead of having pursued the consistent course of appropriation and assimilation practiced by the English "Outlanders" in all times and in all countries, where their profit and their pleasure have attracted them. With it all, they severally gloried in the greatness of the country they had left, for their own good if not for the country's, and they pictured its advantages and attractions in such glowing colors that one wondered how they could have torn themselves away to endure exile in the bleak and forbidding contrasts of their adopted home.

The Holland Society differs from those other societies founded on the spirit of Nationality, or love of Fatherland. No real Simon-pure, bona fide Hollander is eligible to membership. Our ties to Holland are so remote as to be those merely of sentimental memory of its glorious history, and of pride in being the heritors of that spirit of freedom, which in the ancient Frisians would not tolerate the Roman yoke and which successfully resisted the mighty power of Spain at the climax of her greatness.

This is "our own, our Native Land," and has been for generations of our ancestors and will be for generations of our descendants to come. (Applause.) We have made it what it is, we shall be responsible for what it is to be. Here is the problem—what is its solution?

It is said that two hundred and fifty years ago, when New Amsterdam contained a population of only about four hundred, there were eighteen nationalities represented and fourteen species of religion practiced, or at least professed. You will thus see that New York City began its cosmopolitan career very early, almost at its beginning. If you look through the early tax and citizen lists, as for instance, "The lists of owners of houses and lots in the City about 1674—the final cession to the English," you will find many English names—many people of English descent—and quite a few

French. In the "Paris Documents," in a long report of 1701 showing the vulnerability of the colony to attack from the north by a descent from Montreal down the Hudson, and proposing a plan of campaign for conquest, it is stated with reference to Manhattan, that:

"the inhabitants are one-third French refugees, one-third Dutch, and the rest English, . . . and may amount altogether to two thousand men."

We all know there were Jews in New York from the earliest settlement and that they were treated fairly and decently, as up to that time Jews rarely had been by any so-called Christian people. They undoubtedly were modest and retiring and had not yet attained the degree of power and pride to dare to demand the abolition of Christmas. (Laughter.) Christian charity and toleration seem hardly yet ready to go the length of granting that demand. (Applause.)

The recent abortive attempt of the Jews of New York to suppress the celebration in the public schools of the Christmas season, with the usual Christmas carols, was excused by a Western Rabbi on the ground of an ignorant apprehension of persecution on the part of the Jews. He said that from bitter past experience in Russia and other Christian countries of Europe, they knew that Christians were wont to excite themselves to massacre the Jews, as a part of their Christmas festivities, by singing these Christian songs. (Laughter.) A most refined satire, whether advanced in good faith, or with fine irony.

When the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock they had not reached the destination for which they had set out. The glowing accounts of the lands about the harbor and along the shores of the river discovered by Hudson in 1609 had spread through the Netherlands and England and this was the promised land for which they had started. Whether through the treachery of a pilot or being weary and worn out by their wintry voyage, having been gathered in within the sheltering arms of Cape Cod, the Pilgrims decided to stay at Plymouth—at least, for a while. When their co-religionist Puritans, of same speech and blood, set out for the shores of the Western country named for the Virgin Queen, it was natural that they should settle in Massachusetts Bay, near neighbors to the pioneer settlers of that region. It was not long, however, before they all began to regret their mistake and they never took their covetous eyes off New Netherland. Many found their way here in the earliest days under the Dutch government, and later, when, by that treaty of peace between Holland and England, Holland foolishly traded Manhattan Island for an island in the East Indies, and New Netherland became New York, and the English took possession of the country and assumed its government, Englishmen, not only from old England, but from New England, flocked in in increasing numbers, and they have been coming from New England ever since; and when we attend a dinner of the New England Society we wonder if there are any New Englanders left in New England; and its abandoned literary pastures and abandoned fields of business enterprise create no more comment than its abandoned farms.

In no part of the new country was the blood of the original settlers kept purer for a longer time than at the old Huguenot settlement of New Paltz in Ulster County, New York. There the twelve patentees—a father and two sons and three sets of brothers were among them, so that there were only seven distinct families, and most of them inter-related by marriage—settled the Wallkill Valley in 1667 and established their village community with a patriarchal government, electing each year one member from each of the families of the original twelve sharers in the patent to control all the affairs of the community and to allot their common lands by vote, the only record title being the minute in the Duzine's book—the book of the dozen, or the "Twelve Men."

They persisted in their French habits and in their French tongue for fully fifty years before their Dutch neighbors who surrounded them and the Dutch wives whom some of them married changed the vernacular into Hollandsch, which was the family speech until long after the Revolution.

In the last fifty years many Irishmen and Germans have acquired the farms and homesteads which for generations had never left the families of the original patentees and settlers, and within the last ten or fifteen years quite a number of Italians have bought farms and settled within the precincts of the old New Paltz patent—and they are all making good and are all good citizens.

Our friend, Oscar, who has looked after us so well to-night, owns as his country seat one of those lovely Wallkill Valley homesteads near New Paltz.

My own old conservative town of Poughkeepsie and county of Dutchess were originally settled by the Dutch, but they were early intruded upon by the English through Connecticut. Many of them were Quakers, driven by the persecution of the Puritans to seek an asylum and a peaceful home outside of the jail, among the more liberal Dutchmen, and there was soon also a large group of Episcopalians who had their "English Church," with a charter granted by Queen Anne.

During the Revolutionary War the Quakers would not fight and most of these English Churchmen were Tories—most "undesirable citizens" for those times. The preaching of the rector of the "English Church" was so disloyal that he was invited to leave town, and his church was shut up until after the successful issue of that war. It took them a good many years afterwards to live down their record and to become really respectable and respected members of the community.

In the early railroad-building days of the Hudson River Railroad and the Harlem Railroad, Poughkeepsie and Dutchess County received the first sprinkling of Irish immigrants, who came to this country in such large numbers after the great Irish famine.

As early as 1710 there was a strain of German blood set in circulation among the people of the sections that are now upper Ulster and lower Greene counties, and upper Dutchess and lower Columbia counties, brought in the veins of those sturdy German Palatines who settled at East Camp and at West Camp—on the east side of the river about Germantown and on the west about Saugerties. Many of the names of these early German settlers are to-day borne by the most respected residents in the localities where their ancestors settled, and the virtues of their rugged characters are the inheritance of hundreds, bearing other names.

There was no further German immigration until after the revolutionary period in Germany, when many of the freedom-loving Germans, exiled from their native land, found along the Hudson's shores congenial homes in a new Rhineland. Many of these original Irish and German immigrants of the middle of the nineteenth century still survive, and they, as well as their children and their children's children, are all fulfilling the obligations of good citizenship in our community.

For twenty years there has been a constantly increasing number of Italians settled among us, and they are hard-working, thrifty, and successful—a good element in a community, and a peaceful, law-abiding people, as soon as you can induce them to throw away their stilettos and to settle their disputes with their fists.

Within the last ten or fifteen years there has been an influx of Poles and Polish Jews—you have not had them all in New York. Their coming was so unobtrusive, their presence so self-effacing that they attracted no attention, until their names began to appear as purchasers in the lists of real estate transfers and upon the signs of the stores with more and more frequency; but the other day I was actually startled at a sight of the marriage notices published in a local paper—there were ten in all, only four of which were of usual, familiar Dutch, English, Irish, or German names, the others being as follows:

CRAPS—TIMANSKA.	LOLKOWSKI—PLATSERZEUSKI.
FIELDS—MEJOU.	DOMBROWSKI—DOKSUR.
JACOBS—LZESTA.	LEZSON—GAWLIKOWSKI.

(Laughter.)

They are thriving in business, acquiring property, establishing homes, and educating their children. They are religious, honest, and peaceable. They have trimmed their beards, or cut off their whiskers, and they dress like the rest of us. They take good care of their families, and have intelligent interest and active concern in the political life and public affairs of their adopted home.

All these changes, of kind and character, of our citizenship, which began in the very earliest days of the settlement, have been progressing with an accelerated speed ever since, until to-day the country is alarmed at the hordes of invading immigrants; and what I have described as going on by the hundreds, up my way, is going on by the millions through the whole country.

Those revered ancestors of ours were without doubt as much objects of contempt, were as "impossible," to the aboriginal Indian inhabitants, as some of the very worst specimens of the present-day immigrants seem to us. We, who step off trig and trim, after a few days' placid passage in one of those modern mammoth floating hotels, the Mauretania or Lusitania, to get the right point of view, should shut our eyes and conjure up in our imaginations the utter wretchedness of the storm-tossed, starved, and worn-out survivors of the four months' misery of an ocean crossing in one of the cockle-shell boats of those early days.

Could we have been there to see the landing of those early immigrants, our ancestors, from the Bonte-Cou—the "Spotted Cow"—or the Mayflower, after the weary months of overcrowded confinement to the narrow cabined space of those little ships, we no doubt should have despised them as dirty and unkempt, laughed at their funny clothes, and have wondered whether we could ever "assimilate" them. Could we twist the times about—could we synchronize the anachronism—could it be possible for one of our revered ancestors to land in New York to-day, should he, desiring to write home, the news of his safe arrival, inquire of one of our native-born policemen of Celtic descent, where to mail his letter, on being told "in the box on the corner," undoubtedly he would be as green as, and do as did, the fresh immigrant of the other day—persist in attempting to mail his letter in the fire-alarm box, until he succeeded in having all the fire-engines of the district squirting on him, and the police "putting him out."

However repulsive and disheartening their appearance may be when they first land upon our shores, the immigrants who come to-day are not the refuse and dregs of Europe. It takes courage, moral and physical, to break up the routine of the old life, to give up the old home, to abandon the old connections, to sever the old attachments, and to start out to seek a new home and to begin a new life in a strange land, among a strange people speaking a strange tongue.

The raw material of the new American citizenship may not be the best, nor the most desirable, nor equal to that of the early days, but it is not entirely hopeless, and such as it is, it is what we have got to deal with.

In the one hundred millions that the next census will show, the few thousands of descendants of original settlers will be swamped. The new citizenship will not even be a homogeneous mongrel composite; but will be a heterogeneous mass of different elements. Is it the time for pessimistic fatalism to lie down, fearing the worst and waiting for the worst; or for optimistic faith to get busy, to hope for the best, to work for the best, and to accomplish the best? What can we do with it and what is our duty concerning it?

By precept and by example to teach and to justify the sound basic principles of a pure political life—a conscientious performance of all public duties with the unselfish motive of the public good, by service gladly, freely rendered. By the upright living of our lives, and the honest conduct of our business on the sound and safe foundation of the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule, to show forth “the beauty of righteousness.” (Applause.)

If we will only think clearly, speak plainly and truthfully, and act honestly, we shall find the Lord’s Commandment, “Thou shalt not steal,” a sufficient guide for us to follow ourselves and to prescribe for others in all the complex business relations of our modern lives. (Applause.)

New laws for the regulation of insurance companies, new laws for the conduct of the banking business, new laws for the creation of corporations, new laws for the regulation of the business of the railroads, anti-trust laws, anti-rebate laws, Inter-State Commerce Commissions, and Public Utilities Commissions will all be superfluous, except for the regulation of details, if we would go back to the practice of that ancient “honesty” of our ancestors which that worldly-wise philosopher Benjamin Franklin says is the “best policy”; and no one who has lived through the horrid happenings of the last few months can doubt for a moment that he is right.

Let us be ourselves, and strive to make our fellows: "Men who can hear the Decalogue, and feel no self-reproach."

We are no longer the main dish at the feast—not even a side dish; we can hope to be, we can strive to be the seasoning of the "hodge-podge" of the future American citizenship—but that is about all.

"Ye are the salt of the earth, but if the salt have lost his savor, wherewith will it be salted?"
(Applause.)

The most exalted position in the nation is held by a member of our Society. (Applause.) He surely is the most conspicuous exemplar of the Dutch virtues of Honesty and Obstinacy. Perhaps some may think that his virtues have run wild and become faults. (Laughter.) There can be no doubt that the climax of rottenness in certain phases of "high financiering" had been reached, and that the mainly sound body of commercial life of the country might be in danger of being poisoned by the virus of dishonest inflation of values, and of confidence-game promotions.

It is quite a shock to the patient to chop off his gangrenous foot with an axe; it is hard lines that my building must be blown up to prevent the raging conflagration from destroying my neighbor's property.

Reform was demanded; reform has been initiated. Whether it has been done the best way or not, is open to discussion, and to difference of opinion. However bad the cure, it is not as bad as the disease. However you may have been affected, or whatever you may think about it, something had to be done and something has been done.

Remember Commodore Decatur's toast:

"Our Country, in her intercourse with foreign nations, may she always be in the right, but—Our Country!—right or wrong." (Applause.)

In the same spirit of loyalty, I now ask you to drink to the toast:

THE PRESIDENT OF OUR COUNTRY.

(Applause and cheers, and all sang "The Star Spangled Banner.")

Gentlemen, I now ask you to drink to the GOVERNOR OF OUR STATE.

"A man he seems of cheerful yesterdays and confident to-morrows." (Applause and cheers, and singing, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow.")

I have the pleasure of reading to you a telegram received from the Governor of the State of New York.

ALBANY, N. Y., January 16, 1908.

MR. HENRY L. BOGERT,

Secy. Holland Society Banquet, Waldorf-Astoria, N. Y.

I greatly regret that my engagements here will not permit me to attend the banquet of the Holland Society to-night. As a Dutchman to no little degree according to the flesh and very largely in spirit I send my greetings and my best wishes to all the members of the Society.

CHARLES E. HUGHES.

Gentlemen, I now ask you to drink with me to the MAYOR OF OUR CITY.

"Who hath not owned, with rapture-smitten fame,

The power of grace. the magic of a name."

(Applause.)

Next after the influence of the father and of the mother came the influence of the Dutch Dominie in the formation of the character of the Dutch youth. The relations of the Dutch pastor to the families of his flock were those of the intimacy of friendship, as well as of the authority of discipline. But our times have changed and so have our customs. The influence of a real live minister of the present day is exercised in a different way; but the opportunities for good that a sound-thinking and plain-speaking preacher of the Gospel has are infinitely greater in this age than they ever were notwithstanding the lamentations over the indisputable fact that the duty of church attendance may not be so religiously observed, as in former times.

We have with us to-night a Dominie, who usually has something to say, and is never afraid to say it. He will speak to the toast:

THE DOMESTIC LIFE OF HOLLAND.

“Those that paint them truest, praise them most.” Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, D.D.†

(Applause.)

RESPONSE OF REV. E. PARKES
CADMAN, D.D.

Mr. President and Fellow Guests, Ladies and Gentlemen:

NOW that we have disposed of all the digni-taries and duly considered our ancient and more remote histories, I presume that we are in a fitting frame of mind to admit that superiority which is as fixed as fate and that surely belongs to the Dutchman. There are several very notable respects in which he has demonstrated that superiority. I can look around me and see abundant evidence, if God writes a legible hand in human faces, of the worth of a good and a vir-tuous ancestry, an ancestry having meanings attached to it which even the pomp of heraldry did not too much exploit. In the history of the race of Holland there were several tokens neither small nor unimportant, some of them indeed running with the course of time in large ways, that testify to the grasp that the Hollander had upon the forces of civilization. The first occasion that I visited Holland, uninitiated by custom, and perhaps the better because unblunted by it, and unaided by familiarity, I said to myself in the language of one of your old proverbs that if "God made the sea the Dutchman made the shore." (Laughter and applause.)

I found myself sailing fifteen to twenty feet above the level of those Flemish pasturages and homesteads where the men and maidens went out to meet the kine that stood knee-deep in the clover, and as I looked around upon that immemorial landscape, protected from the encroachments of the Old Man of the Sea, it was indeed a very strange and unforgettable experience.

So it is that one of the first tokens of the Dutch character is in the fact that it took its meat from the eater and made the very maw of the sea, where sleep the ribs of ships and men, become a harvest field laughing with prosperity and rejoicing with bread. (Applause.) This was in itself a long and continuous struggle calling upon the highest sort of discipline and employing every noble pursuit of peace: a sufficient testimony to the great qualities of the Dutch people. To-night, while I speak to you here in this scene of perchance vitiating splendor, the fisherwoman rocks her babe to sleep in a little home that is below the level of the waters upon which her husband goes out to get the livelihood, and it is the roar of the ocean that plays the accompaniment to her cradle song. (Applause.)

That is the epoch in history that does not have to depend upon flaming batteries and the pomp of war, yet it means to human life in its better and nobler aspects and on its truly divine side, that in his love of the home, your ancestor took the waste places beneath the waters, and, having drained them off and dammed them back, there he built his steading, and from that place he went forth to the ends of the earth armed with the strength of ten because of the spot where he received his charisma.

Another trait that testifies to the superiority of Holland's institutions was in the humanness that shot through and through her life, tinged as it was, as some of you know, by the stern Calvinism which was more or less prevalent in the theology of the Church of Holland. But that Calvinism could not repress, as it did succeed in repressing in other centers, the love of art or its rich and pregnant cultivation. The galleries of Holland containing the triumphs of great Flemish and Dutch artists are in themselves a large and sufficient guarantee to the fact that the men who followed the pursuits of commerce to distant shores and were bold and enterprising colonizers there, could also turn aside to the more refined and delicate mysteries of life, and could give us, as they have given us, a superb witness to the strength of their domestic institutions—the art that we rejoice in to-day from masters like Rembrandt and the like. (Applause.)

Furthermore, it seems to me that Holland was never so great in her self-possession and poise and dignity as when she had to lay down a part of her power. It takes a truly great man to know how to step out of a supreme position without seeking to dictate concerning it and to leave it for those who come after him to do as they will without too much trouble about its future. It also takes a great nation to do what the Puritan soldiers did, the men of Naseby and Marston Moor; they watched blackhaired Charles II. come back to his own again, then laid down their arms at Blackheath, arms they had borne from Dunbar to Dunkirk with illustrious success, and winning a greater victory over themselves than they had ever won over the enemy—these men, perhaps the most terrible band of warriors that civilization has seen in the past five hundred years, went back to the homestead, the plow, the smithy, and the store content to work in their own way and to let others fill the places which they had hitherto purged by their valor and their blood. (Applause.)

And when Holland lost her dream of colonial empire and when her gallant attempt to seize the mistressy of the seas was more or less set aside, she never for a moment forsook herself or lost confidence in herself or gave place to undue mourning about the change in the situation. But strong and without rage, this nation that had withstood Spain, and resisted unto death and let in the sea that the foul foot of invasion might be washed away, took her place in the galaxy of nations with dignity, with self-respect, and with the respect of other nations from that day until this. (Applause.)

Now, what is the explanation of all that? What is the secret reason behind all that? I do not hesitate to say, Mr. President and Members of the Holland Society, that the reason and explanation for all, as for the freedom and strength of her parliamentary institutions, of her contributions to political life, to artistry, to colonization, and the rest of the work that she accomplished, was in the duty, in the devotion and the virtue of Holland's domestic life. The strength of her home made the strength of the people. It was the custom among our German ancestors to turn to their women as oracles, and they were a race not to be despised. From that day onward to this throughout Northern Europe, and until recent times, woman has played a prophetic and a majestic part in the development of our highest and best life as nations. To-day we have to face the practical question as to whether we are continuing in the most healthy and salutary ways that type of domestic life that you shall discover in Colonel Hutchinson's Memoirs, in the homes of Holland, and in the homes of New England.

A great deal is said of the "New Woman," but what in the name of the living truth is the matter with the Old Woman! She rocked the cradle, and she had something in it. (Laughter and applause.) She left psychology to the psychologists, and long-winded dissertations upon how to bring up children she did indeed despise, for she resumed by resuming and brought them up. I was one of nine children. I do not know the number of the fraternity to which our honored President belongs

PRESIDENT HASBROUCK: (Interrupting.) Eight.

DR. CADMAN: Eight, he says. Quite respectable, but still beneath the glory. (Laughter.) When you study a Dutch interior by one of her masters, with the warm oak irradiated by the fire glow and the rich tapestries that came from the East, and the signs of progress and prosperity and piety—there is the vitality of Holland, not in great masses of masonry flung against the sky, as in the south of Europe, but in the outlet of life toward God in the home life and in the life of womanhood and of children. That made Holland, the power that plucked from the crimsoned hand of Spain the scepter of her dominion. (Applause.)

When the woman of to-day—and I am sure the ladies here will bear me out in this—leaves her cradle for any other sphere she leaves the hub to sit on the rim where there is more motion and less power. (Laughter and applause.)

I have been reading recently the memoirs of John Wesley, who was quite a characteristic Englishman of the eighteenth century, and indeed the chief secretary for Ireland in Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman's Cabinet, Mr. Augustine Birrell, says that John Wesley was the foremost Englishman of the century in which he lived. It was the mother of John Wesley that made John (laughter), in a very deep and vital sense that I am sure you gentlemen will apprehend after a moment's thought; it was the mother of John and Charles Wesley who sent them out from the poverty of her country rectory to be the apostles of a new sweetness and light. That type of motherhood, whether it be Nancy Hanks in her log cabin rocking the cradle of Abraham Lincoln, or whether it be a Dutch housewife, and mother, as we still see them in these pictures that haunt us and that are strewn richly through the art galleries of Holland, and wherever a Holland picture is to be found—those were the women who, without asking for any part in the glory, gave us our power. (Applause.)

And it is for womanhood to-day to remember that when she takes liberty she has it under law and plays a great game in life against an opponent that resents every false move. If the Hollanders to-day and their descendants by destiny and claim, men and women both, can reproduce those disciplines and those virtues then you will have an influence altogether beyond the proportion of your numbers and you will continue to be a part, at any rate, of the salt of the earth. (Applause.)

PRESIDENT HASBROUCK: Our next toast is:
THE DUTY OF THE DUTCH OF THE PRESENT DAY.

“The primal duties shine aloft, like stars.”

This toast will be responded to by a man whom I think I thoroughly know. I hesitate to tell you all I know about him, because if I did you might think my eulogy extravagant and that prejudice blinded me and predilection led me astray. All I have to say is that in four years' association with him in one of the bitterest and most strenuous fights for reform of intolerable political conditions I have always found him “as true as steel,” as “straight as a string,” and “as honest as the day is long.”

Leaving behind him the comfort of competency and the luxury of leisure he jumped into the arena as the people's champion for the right. When duty called him he made the campaign for election as supervisor of his ancestral town of Red Hook—and he was beaten; but he tried again and was elected. For four years he was engaged with the dogged Dutch tenacity of his Stuyvesant forebears, in what seemed at first an almost hopeless contest in a thoroughly debauched county for the rights of the people. The honesty of his purpose was equaled by the energy of his performance. An overwhelming victory, a redeemed county, were the rewards at last of his straightforward, honorable, pertinacious fight.

The people of the State have elevated him to the second highest place in its government—a worthy compeer with our chief magistrate, and at the same time the people of his own town and of his own county, those who know him best and love him most, insist that he still continue to be the Supervisor from the town of Red Hook.

“How well in thee appears
The constant service of the antique world,
When service sweat for duty, not for meed!
Thou art not for the fashion of these times,
Where none will sweat, but for promotion.”

Can we not hope that the fashion of these times has changed, and that the people may call one who has been “faithful over a few things” “to be ruler over many things”?

I introduce to you the Supervisor from the town of Red Hook and the Lieutenant-Governor of the State of New York, Honorable Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler. (Applause.)

Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler

RESPONSE OF HON. LEWIS STUYVESANT
CHANLER

Mr. President, Ladies, and Members of the Holland Society:

I AM very sorry that the able and eloquent Dr. Cadman has had to leave, because I was very anxious to interrupt him while he was speaking about the New and Old Woman to say that I had the advantage of him in being one of eleven! (Applause.) And as one of eleven I wanted to pay for a moment my respects to the New Woman as well as to the Old Woman. The New Woman belongs to the times. She has grown up with the times and the times have made us and made her, and I tell you, gentlemen, you have got to make the best of the New Woman or the New Woman will get the best of us. (Laughter.)

Now, I am not an after-dinner speaker. When my old friend, your President, asked me to speak at this dinner I told him I would do so if he would choose a toast and I would try and do my best to speak to it. I was not surprised when I saw the toast to which he had assigned me because if you know your President and his recent elevation to the Bench and his past political career in my and his county of Dutchess, you will realize that what he means when he asks me to speak upon the duty of the Dutchman of to-day is, to vote for Frank Hasbrouck and men like him for office. (Applause.) There is a great deal of truth in that if Frank Hasbrouck stands to you for the same principles he stands to me for.

I think that in this country of ours, if we realize as we do after all that we are the child of the nations of the world, all the civilized countries of Europe are our parents and our ancestors, that it is through the thoughts inspired at a meeting such as this that tends best to keep alive the higher flame of a higher patriotism.

We meet to-day as Dutchmen. Some of us may meet to-morrow night in some other scene or partially national capacity, but we meet, not for the purpose of praising ourselves only as descendants of those whom we are proud to claim as ancestors, we meet as a portion of this great nation which has drawn its inspiration in part from this nation and in part from that. To-day we meet to praise and to look upon with satisfaction the past glory, the past greatness, and the present prosperity of Holland and of the Dutch and to look forward with surety. To-morrow it may be some other nation, but it all tends to increase and perpetuate that underlying principle of American patriotism which does not spring from any one nation but which takes the best ideal of all nations and makes it one commonwealth of American principles; which enables us and our children and our children's children to set an example to the nations of the world as will necessarily show that not in vain have we taken from them the best that was theirs and given them back in their example an inspiration that will lead them in turn to reach the highest aspirations they can hold.

Now, the duty of the Dutchman of to-day differs in no wise from the duty of every other American citizen saving so far as you can derive inspiration from the lessons of his own Dutch ancestry, and if I were asked to say to what we could look most for from the Dutch, I would say Patriotism, Caution, and Common Sense.

Every occasion which meets us in this life which must be met by us can be solved in a number of ways. The Dutch were patriotic; they were cautious, and they used common sense. Take, for example, the occasion of that famous Dutch Governor of New Amsterdam. Peter Stuyvesant was no coward. If Peter Stuyvesant had had his own wish he would rather have risked the total destruction of New Amsterdam than have surrendered to the British forces. Peter Stuyvesant was Dutch; stubborn if you will, but he was also patriotic, and to this extent Democratic. He yielded his own opinions to the decision of the majority of his fellow-burghers. He consorted with burgher and with banker, with the man who had built the house in which he lived and hoped to die and to leave to his children when he was dead. The power was his. Peter Stuyvesant, if he had chosen, might have stood in the forefront of the fight and, sustained by the people in the justice of the cause and the inherent honesty of his motives, might have seen before his eyes the destruction of the homestead of the burgher, the house of the business man, and the savings bank of the poor. But Peter Stuyvesant took counsel with those whose risks were as great as his. He went down on his wooden leg and he surrendered, and when prosperity came, following the peace that was brought about, Peter Stuyvesant took no shame in going of an evening to drink schnapps with the British Governor.

Well, you will say that that was no very fine or inspiring spectacle. After all Peter Stuyvesant gave up all that life held for him: power, privilege, and in the transient hope of a glory that might result from a, even if it seemed vague, victory. He gave it up for the benefit of those who were entrusted to his care and keeping, and I know few finer spectacles in history than that of old Peter Stuyvesant stumping down on his wooden leg to surrender against his own wish for the benefit of those who looked to him for guidance, for safety, and for delivery. (Applause.)

Gentlemen, to-day in this country of ours the duty of the Dutchman and the duty of the American is simply this: To do his duty and to do it fearlessly and to try to do it well. Now that is a platitude; there is nothing new about that. There is very little new in any idea that is really sound because it has been said and used before. But I believe myself that we in this country are too apt to take pride in sitting back and criticizing those that are in public life, let us say, talking about their shortcomings and their failures and not as we should do, realizing that whatever failure of government exists in this country, in this state, and in this city, is due to you and to me and to those who live in the different communities where bad government exists. And no man has a right to criticize those who try and fail unless he first has tried and failed himself. (Cries of "Good! Good!" and applause.)

And more men would go into public life; more young men would go into public life, if they thought by doing so, instead of subjecting themselves to criticism for every action they tried to do, they would have behind them, no matter what party they belonged to,—they would have behind them in the people of their own community a desire to see them succeed in so far as they were doing their duty, and to see them fail in so far as they were not doing their duty. Instead of that we are too apt to look merely at the success of any one individual. I know it is the same way in business. I remember often when I used to live and practice law in New York, going out to dinners and hearing some of the older men discuss the prospects of some younger man, say: "Well, how is so-and-so?"—"Doing splendidly, he is making so many thousands of dollars a year." That was the point of view of those men, and why should it not be the point of view of younger men—to earn so many thousands of dollars a year; not what he is doing but what he is making.

That has been the trouble of this country, and that will be the trouble of this country until men of Dutch blood and Irish blood and English blood and every other nationality will realize that upon their shoulders rests the responsibility of setting an example to be followed by those hordes of thousands coming to this country every ten years; that it is not money alone that makes the man nor is it the making of money—it is the manhood in the man and the fact that that man is endeavoring, it may be against heavy obstacles, to do his duty even though he is not making the thousands that John Smith is making, but only the hundreds that John Brown is making. Until they realize that John Brown is making his hundreds honestly and that John Smith is making his thousands dishonestly, until you give to Brown and not to Smith the credit for the work he does, you have no fault to find. (Applause.)

Now, gentlemen, in conclusion let me say simply this: I believe all we want in this country to-day, at this time is common sense—Dutch common sense, the common sense of William the Silent. We do not want any Moses to lead us out of the wilderness. We are in no wilderness. We are a great country. We are prosperous, and we are actually rich. We have been trading upon our prosperity and we have been gambling upon our greatness, but let us for a moment instead of rushing ahead blindly looking for some possible avenue of salvation, for a moment if necessary go back a little to the old region of common sense. We are tired of the prophets of disaster and we are not less tired with the dishonest dealings of dishonest men. (Applause.)

Let us use our common sense with common justice, and let the criminal rich join the criminal poor in a criminal jail, and the honest burgher will receive a share of honest wealth. (Prolonged applause.)

PRESIDENT HASBROUCK: "Behold there came wise men from the East to Jerusalem."

The sources of all knowledge and the beginnings of all learning from most ancient times were in the East.

The world's enlightenment has followed the course of the sun.

We have with us one wise man from the City of the East Wind, and another wise man from "Way down East."

It gives me pleasure to introduce to you the latter, a Representative from the State of Maine in our National Congress, which by the Federal Constitution was created to be, and, until the last few years, was one of the coördinate branches of our triune system of government.

He will speak to you on the subject of LIBERTY AS PROCLAIMED IN HOLLAND, AN ESSENTIAL FEATURE OF OUR FUNDAMENTAL LAW.

"Here patriot Truth shall glorious precepts draw Pledged to Religion, Liberty, and Law."

Hon. Charles E. Littlefield. (Applause.)

RESPONSE OF HON. CHARLES E.
LITTLEFIELD.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Holland Society:

IT is I; be not afraid. (Laughter.) Perhaps I ought to say, in order not to be backward in coming forward, that I also am one of nine (laughter and applause); and I can perhaps go farther than that and say that my paternal ancestor was a preacher of the gospel from which we have heard very delightfully this evening.

The development of the high degree of civil and religious liberty that we enjoy, under a constitutional form of government, has been the result of ages of toilsome, painful endeavor, involving the sacrifice of uncounted lives and the destruction of untold treasure. It has been attended by the bloody infamies on the one hand of the Spanish Inquisition and the equally intolerant, bigoted, and vindictive religious persecutions for conscience' sake by Protestants upon the other. No characterization is more accurate than that of the brilliant Macaulay, when in describing this condition, he says that all history shows that men have always "been ready to persecute without pity and to fight to the death for a religion whose creed they did not understand and whose precepts they habitually disobeyed.”

The achievement of religious freedom and human liberty has in the main been identical. It is true that in 1215 Magna Charta was extorted, from the incompetent John by the Barons at Runnymede. So Luther in his heroic attempt to unshackle the conscience nailed his ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg in 1517, and declared that by them he must stand—he could do no other; yet in 1555 Ridley, Latimer, and Cranmer, and nearly three hundred more, went to the stake under Catholic Mary for conscience’ sake, and less than forty years later, 1593, in the golden age of English Literature, in the time of good Protestant Queen Bess, separation from the Church was a capital crime. Thacker, Coffin, Barrowe, and Greenwood, the great Independents, died for the faith that was in them, and Puritanism was made a crime by statute. It was not for some years that Lingard could say, “The bloody code which she [Elizabeth] had enacted against the rights of conscience had ceased to stain the page of the statute book.”

Bradford, in his quaint style, says: “So as in ye ancient time the persecutions of ye heathen and their emperours was not greater than of the Christians one against other; the Adrians and their other complices against ye orthodox and true Christians.”

“The like method Satan hath seemed to hold in these later times.”

In the midst of the black pall of unspeakable intolerance and cruel bigotry that covered the land, the heroic conduct of William of Orange shines with immortal splendor. (Applause.) A Catholic by birth, he was ordered in 1553 to carry out the edicts of the Inquisition "without infraction, alteration, or moderation"; he not only omitted to do so, but on the contrary gave the people warning that they might effect their escape "thinking it more necessary to obey God than man."

In 1582 he gave written instructions "to see that the word of God was preached without, however, suffering any hindrance to the Romish Church in the exercise of its religion, to restore fugitives and the banished for conscience' sake. Likewise," said he, "shall those of the religion offer no let or hindrance to the Romish Church."

Motley says of him at this time: "He was the champion of the political rights of his country, but before all he was the defender of its religion. Liberty of conscience for his people was his first object. To establish Luther's axiom that thoughts are toll free was his determination."

"Freedom of worship for all denominations, toleration for all forms of faith—this was the great good in his philosophy."

"He resolutely stood out against all meddling with men's consciences, or inquiring into their thoughts. While smiting the Spanish Inquisition into the dust, he would have no Calvinist inquisition set up in its place. Earnestly a convert to the reformed religion, but hating and denouncing only what was corrupt in the ancient church, he would not force men with fire and sword to travel to Heaven upon his own road. Thought should be to all free. Neither monk nor minister should burn, drown, or hang his fellow creatures, where argument or expostulation failed to redeem them from error."

It was the first time in the history of our civilization when a great warrior, patriot, and statesman declared as a basic rule of civic conduct, that conscience should be enfranchised and thought forever free. (Applause.) His profound conception of the eternal verities, and his sublime courage is amply demonstrated by the fact that in this great declaration he stood absolutely alone. He followed no precedent. No associate sustained and cheered him on. Motley graphically and eloquently says:

The brave tranquil solitary man still held his track across the raging waves shedding as much light as one dear human soul could dispense. Yet the dim lantern so far in advance was swallowed in the mist ere those who sailed in his wake could shape their course by his example. No man understood him. Not even his nearest friends comprehended his views nor saw that he strove to establish not freedom for Calvinism but freedom for conscience.

It is true, however, that although the silent man was misunderstood, misjudged, and in many instances calumniated, the principles of government upon which he insisted made Holland the home of a degree of religious and civil liberty undreamed of elsewhere. It was written that "Holland was then the common refuge of the distressed for conscience' sake, the place where the outcasts alike of France and England and Spain found a free and even a gracious home."

- When the little congregation of Scrooby learned by sad experience that in the land of Magna Charta free thought meant a slit nose, and free speech a cropped ear, they looked for some other land where there was a semblance of freedom. In all the civilized world there was but one haven of refuge and "by joynte consente they resolved to go into ye Low Countries where they heard was freedom of religion for all men."

These great principles of liberty thus asserted, maintained, and cherished were destined to become a potential and determining factor in the development of a great people. Having declared that all men "are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness," and vindicated, with the aid of the God of Battles, the right to establish a government to secure to the governed the enjoyment of these "unalienable rights," our fathers in 1787 crystallized in written form the great fundamental human rights, the common heritage of all mankind. These rights were co-eval with the creation, although never before completely enjoyed. It was now proposed that the right of every subject of the government to free thought and free speech, to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience under his own vine and fig tree with none to molest or make him afraid, and to be secure in his person and property should be guaranteed to him by a solemn instrument, impregnable against executive, legislative, or judicial assault. (Applause.) In this manner they intended to "secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity."

All of the functions of government were to be exercised by three separate, distinct, independent, and coördinate departments, the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial—perhaps to a certain extent rendered innocuous in recent times. (Laughter.)

Each within its own sphere is supreme and is not the proper subject of interference or domination on the part of either of the others. The government was dual in its character. That of the States was local and personal and that of the United States was federal in its character. Within their constitutional orbits they are entirely independent of each other, and while moving therein together to regulate and control the affairs of men, they move with the precision and a certainty of results of a vast frictionless machine. Specific powers were possessed by each and neither had any right to exercise powers exclusively vested in the other. The failure of the State Government to exercise or to satisfactorily exercise any of these powers did not vest in the Federal Government any right to exercise them. The Constitution created a tribunal with the power to say, acting itself within its own constitutional limitations, when the Executive or Legislative had encroached upon the rights of the people. In early times, and sometimes now, it was contended that the Supreme Court had no right to exercise this power, that the legislature was vested with the power to say whether its own acts were constitutional. Fortunately for us this contention did not prevail, as in my judgment it is one of the most dangerous heresies ever asserted. In such a case the most sacred of human rights would be at the mercy of every legislature, with its tendency to cowardly responsiveness, to demagogic, hysterical, irrational public clamor. A written constitution unamendable except as provided therein, to be construed and applied by an intelligent, honest, courageous, and patriotic court, unawed by power, and undisturbed by fitful agitation, however great, is the Sheet Anchor of our liberties. It is "our bulwark never failing."

(Applause.)

It is not necessary to traverse history or to urge academic or didactic reasons to justify this assertion. Current events are its more than ample justification. The last Congress passed what is known as the Railroad Rate bill. It originated in and first passed the House. As it passed the House it did not provide for any review by the Court of the decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission—in fact, some of its promoters conceded that it was deliberately intended to exclude the Court from such review. The effort to pass the bill in that shape was prolonged, persistent, vigorous and even vindictive, and exhausted every legislative expedient. Notwithstanding this, after many days' debate in the Senate such a provision was added and the President declared in a public letter that any one that believed in effective legislation that did not favor the Senate amendment simply stultified himself. Secretary Taft—now a candidate for President, if I am correctly advised—in his Columbus speech, reviewing the achievements of the administration, declared that without such a provision the bill would have been invalid, yet the House of Representatives was so insistent upon the bill in its original form that the Republicans and Democrats in their eager and hot haste to respond to the general agitation against railroads entered into a hard and fast agreement not to permit any amendments to the precious bill, and promptly voted down an amendment, providing for a review by the Court, drawn by the Interstate Commerce Commission. I know whereof

I affirm as I offered the amendment. Near the close of the last session the House voted by a substantial majority on a yea and nay roll call to reduce the fares on the street railways in Washington to three cents; after forty minutes' debate, during which one of the leading advocates of the bill stated that he could not demonstrate that the railroads could carry passengers for three cents, and it was stated and not denied that in actual operating expenses, excluding taxes, interest on indebtedness, and return on capital, it cost 2.40 on one road and 2.50 on another to carry each passenger. Under the Constitution you cannot compel the employment of capital at a loss or without a fair return thereon even if it happens to be invested in a railroad.

In 1907, in a State whose soil is a checkerboard of railroads, that hasn't a foot of soil ten miles from the sound of the whistle, that is crossed by nearly ever trunk line leading from north to south, east to west, presided over by a Governor who has contributed more than his share to the agitation, a committee of its legislature in a session lasting less than an hour agreed to report a bill requiring all railroads to transport passengers for 2 cents a mile. What ought to be said of legislators who determine the rights of parties without hearing them? Yet I am told that there are those who affect to believe that the legislature ought to be allowed to determine, in accordance with its own sweet will, whether its assaults upon capital are warranted by the fundamental law. It has been intimated that there are others who are anxious to have the Congress assume and exercise in its calm, considerate, and courageous way all of the powers that the State does not, or forsooth does not properly exercise. God forbid! The last discreditable crop of ill-considered, ill-advised, malevolently unconstitutional legislation is too fresh in your minds to justify further detail. Upon the efficiency of our great system of more than 224,000 miles of railroad transportation the very commercial, industrial, and social life of 85,000,000 of people depend.

In the light of all these facts to which your attention has been but briefly called, what would a railroad investment be worth, if its existence depended upon legislatures that had unlimited power to determine the constitutionality of their own acts, and the individual had no right to appeal to a tribunal where he could be heard before his rights were established in accordance with principles that are "the same yesterday and to-day and forever"? (Applause.)

The exercise of federal power seems to create an irresistible itching for its extension. The centralization of powers, the assumption by the Federal Government of the powers of the State, though concededly not granted to it and under the prevailing rules of construction not to be properly exercised by it, is sometimes urged. On the 12th of December, 1907, in addressing the Pennsylvania Society and discussing the trend of development and the relative efficacy of the State and Federal Governments, a very able and learned citizen of this State said:

It may be that such control could be better exercised in particular instances by the Government of the States, but the people will have the control they need either from the States or the National Government, and if the States fail to furnish it in due measure, sooner or later constructions of the Constitution will be found to vest the power where it will be exercised in the National Government.

This assumes that in the contingency suggested the Federal Government is to exercise powers not granted to it, not by an amendment of the Constitution enlarging its powers in the constitutional way, but simply by construction vesting it with that power. A recent pronouncement of the Supreme Court of the United States makes a discussion of this convenient and interesting doctrine superfluous. In the case of Kansas vs. Colorado, 206 U. S., 90, in May, 1907, the Court was passing upon the rights of the respective States to the use of the Arkansas River, and the United States sought to intervene on the ground that the rights which it was asserting though not granted to it by the Constitution could be exercised by virtue of its inherent sovereign power. In discussing this contention this great Court, seven of its members (Justice McKenna and Moody not taking part in the decision) speaking through one of its oldest, ablest, and most patriotic members, of whom you have perhaps heard, Mr. Justice David J. Brewer, said:

But the proposition that there are legislative powers affecting the nation as a whole which belong to although not expressed in the grant of powers, is in direct conflict with the doctrine that this is a government of enumerated powers. That this is such a government clearly appears from the Constitution, independently of the amendments, for otherwise there would be an instrument granting certain specified things made operative to grant others and distinct things. This natural construction of the original body of the Constitution is made absolutely certain by the Tenth

Amendment. This amendment which was seemingly adopted with prescience of just such contention as the present, disclosed the widespread fear that the National Government might, under a pressure of a supposed general welfare, attempt to exercise powers which had not been granted. With equal determination the framers intended that no such assumption should ever find justification in the organic act, and that if the future powers seemed necessary they should be granted by the people in the manner they had provided for amending that act.

I do not suppose that this opinion was intended as an answer to the distinguished Secretary, but it could not have been more to the point if it were. In any event, they are words "fitly spoken," like "apples of gold in pictures of silver."

This attitude of the Court is vigorously emphasized by Mr. Justice Harlan in an address to the Kentuckians, delivered December 23, 1907, in which he said:

If this tendency towards centralization were really the case the duty of every American would be to resist such a tendency by every means in his power. A National Government for National affairs and State Governments for State affairs is the foundation rock upon which our institutions rest. Any serious departure from that principle would bring disaster upon the American system of free government.

And he also declared that the "Constitution until amended in the mode prescribed by itself must be deemed supreme."

When the Secretary of War has occasion to look for the construction he has in mind I doubt if he will expect to find it in the Supreme Court of the United States. Amid the turbulent predatory agitation that characterizes the period to which I have referred, it is refreshing to be able to turn to an important state paper, prepared during that time, cast in a calmer and more judicial mold, vetoing an act of the legislature in its attempt to regulate railroads. Here are a few salient characteristic extracts:

The passage of the bill was not preceded by legislative investigation; or suitable inquiry under the authority of the State.

But injustice on the part of railroad corporations toward the public does not justify injustice on the part of the state toward railroad corporations.

An arbitrary dislocation of tariff without investigation is a very serious matter.

In dealing with these questions Democracy must demonstrate its capacity to act upon deliberation and to deal justly.

As statements of the ethics of government these sentences deserve to be "Graven with an iron pen and lead in the rock forever."

It is because their author has signally demonstrated in a conspicuous manner, with an eye single to the discharge of his duties, by his official acts and declarations that he is eminently safe, sane, sound, sensible, and sincere, that the greatest elective office known to our civilization, the highest office within the gift of his fellow-citizens, the Presidency of 85,000,000 of people is now seeking the man, the Hon. Charles E. Hughes. (Applause and cheers.)

The torch of liberty enkindled by the great stadtholder in the sixteenth century still illumines our pathway. We little know the value of his services. He made all mankind his debtor. Of him it was well said: "As long as he lived he was the guiding star of a whole brave nation, and when he died the little children cried in the streets."

While we maintained unimpaired in its purity and integrity the constitution which embodies the principles for which he lived and died, to be construed and applied as it was and is, by the greatest Court in Christendom, we shall have no occasion to "take a bond of fate and make assurance doubly sure" that "a government of the people for the people and by the people shall not perish from the earth." (Applause.)

PRESIDENT HASBROUCK: There was one good thing that the settlers in Massachusetts Bay did before they all flocked to New York, and that was the foundation of Harvard College in 1636. While we beat them by a few years in the provisions made for the education of the people in New Netherland, they did pretty well and early looked out for the needs of the mind as soon as the absolute and pressing necessities of the body had been cared for.

Harvard originally was founded as a school for the Indians and to train missionaries for the conversion of the Indians and to educate ministers.

We believe it is the only college in the country that can boast of having in its list of graduates aboriginal Indian names decorated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. But the Indian did not take kindly to the "humanities."

Perhaps after King Philip and the rest of his savages had been slaughtered there were no more Indians to educate.

However that may be, Harvard has gradually "degenerated" into what it has become to-day.

In 1869 I was a freshman at Harvard, and it was my pleasant experience and duty to assist, as an undergraduate member of the college, at the inauguration of its new president.

Perhaps some of the present day, new-method educators may claim that the Harvard of my time was like that university of which Dean Swift spoke, when he said it was a great seat of learning, because every student had taken some learning there with him and had brought none away, so that in the course of years it had accumulated a vast store; but I shall never admit that the Harvard of those days was not the best college in the country and that one could not get just as sound an education there then as he can now.

It was not lying around in quite such chunks, nor was it served up in so many different and enticing styles as the bill of fare of the present day offers.

In the nearly forty years that have elapsed, under the safe, sound, and sane governance and guidance of this new president, whom I helped to inaugurate, Harvard has become the greatest seat of learning, the most renowned university in the land.

You can learn everything there—either useful or ornamental; all the arts and sciences—except rowing and football; good literature or sound law, language or landscape gardening, philosophy or physics, the cure of bodies both human and animal, and the salvation of souls by any and all systems or creeds, or by the Unitarian “go as you please,” method, without system or creed.

In this great university all the letters of the alphabet hardly suffice for the degrees conferred, and you have to double up.

The degree of D.D. may mean Doctor of Divinity or Doctor of Dentistry.

"You pays your money and you takes your choice."

We all know the old-style college president whose attention was wholly absorbed by the petty happenings within the narrow confines of his college town, and who, immured within the walls of his library among his books, used to think he did his whole duty in the world by occasional lectures to the senior class on Ethics and the "Evidence of Christianity."

Our new-style college president is an altogether different man. He takes an active interest in all the public questions and events of his day and helps toward the solution of the problems of his age.

We all know of the intelligent, practical contributions of the President of Harvard University toward the solution of the Labor Problem.

We all know that he has views well considered and temperate on all subjects that concern the public good, and that when occasion offers he is wont to express these views with the plain-speaking earnestness characteristic of him. I now invite your interested attention to his remarks concerning

STATE LEGISLATION ESSENTIAL TO MANY URGENT REFORMS.

What constitutes a State? . . . Men who their duties know

But know their rights, and, knowing dare maintain,
. . . And sovereign law, that state's collected will,
O'er thrones and globes elate,
Sits empress, crowning good, repressing ill.

Charles William Eliot, LL.D., President of Harvard University.

ADDRESS BY CHARLES W. ELIOT.

Mr. President, Members of the Holland Society, Ladies and Gentlemen:

YOU will excuse me if at this late hour of the evening I modify a little the remarks I had intended to make about the announced subject, "State Legislation Essential to Many Urgent Reforms." Other topics which have already been brought before you to-night, attract me more.

I am not quite satisfied with the reasons we have heard given to-night for the high honor in which the Dutch people are held and should be held in our country. The great passion which moved the Dutch people was indeed the passion for liberty, for the freedom of men; but has the fact been brought out to-night with adequate vividness that this passion for liberty was born, not of desire for commercial freedom, or for political freedom, but of desire for religious freedom, for freedom to worship God in accordance with the dictates of the individual conscience? Where did modern freedom begin to be born? In Protestantism, a religious movement, a protest against a great religious corporation which claimed to have a monopoly of spiritual grace. That movement was German. And what other race, what other people backed the Germans in this religious movement? The Scandinavian Gustavus Adolphus with his magnificent Swedes. And what people came next in the defense of this great principle of liberty for the individual conscience? The Dutch. That was their great, their ever-to-be-remembered service to mankind. They felt the passion for liberty, and they expressed it by putting into practice the great principle of religious toleration. (Applause.) To be sure, as has already been pointed out, some of the principles and practices of religious toleration had already appeared fitfully in England; but—as has already been pointed out to-night—when a few English people were driven from home near the opening of the seventeenth century by religious persecution, it was Holland that afforded them a refuge. It was from Holland that the Pilgrim Fathers started for the New World. (Applause.) I say, therefore, that the great love of liberty originated in the yearning for religious freedom. When the English took up in earnest and for good the cause of liberty, they furthered it by embodying in institutions and public practices certain principles of personal and political liberty. Thus, they gave a part in government to the Commons, and thereby contributed to fix what has become the main direction of our march toward freedom, toward a freedom we have not yet reached.

There is another people which thousands of years ago began to contribute to this great progress of the human race toward liberty by teaching that all sound government must be founded on righteousness—the Hebrew people, a people famous in the world because of their heroic endurance of three captivities, the Egyptian, the Assyrian, and the Christian; a people now at last free indeed on the soil we call ours. The Jews were the pioneer monotheistic people; and they again illustrate the fact that this great principle of freedom, toward the realization of which we strive, began in religion. The government of the Judges, ages ago in Palestine, afforded to the Puritans of New England the best type of their free theocracy; and we may depend upon it, gentlemen, that among us to-day the Hebrews will be true to the country which has given them at last a real liberty.

And now, in our continental domain, we have this prodigious mixture of races, described by two or three of the speakers this evening, this great mixture of peoples, many of which can be depended on to contribute to the further growth of freedom. What is the American contribution? What have we done on this fresh soil, free from the social classifications of Europe, from the inheritances of that feudal system to which the Middle Ages owed much, but which now transmits chiefly embarrassments and brakes? We were free from that system here; we had no classes; we had no Lords; we were all Commons, though, curiously enough, when our government was designed, when the Constitution was adopted, we endeavored to copy the English two chambers without the reason for them that England had always had. England had Lords and had Commons; but we had not, and to this day we have been at a loss to find any good ground for the establishment of our Senate and our House of Representatives—a pure bit of copying, without the motives that had naturally produced two chambers in England.

But we have made contributions to freedom in this country—great contributions. The first contribution is to individual liberty—to the individual rights of personal freedom and security of property. The most important contribution we have made is an immense increase of the freedom of association, of the grouping together of men with a common purpose to unite their forces in associated action on any scale, small, moderate, or gigantic. To be sure, this great increase of the liberty of combination or association is comparatively recent. It began two generations after the establishment of the Constitution of the United States. This liberty of association, with liberty of incorporation with limited liability, is hardly sixty years old, and yet it is the great additional liberty which we have provided by our legislation, our administration, and our judicial action. It is a formidable liberty, gentlemen, and we owe to its large extension some of the greatest evils of our social, industrial, and political life to-day. Let me briefly mention some of those evils.

In the first place, the industrial combination—the combination of capitalists, the combination of workingmen—never so free as in this country, was never before carried to such an extent in numbers of persons combined for common objects, and in many cases for selfish objects. Consider what untold losses and difficulties come upon us because of this freedom of industrial movement and commercial combination. Our country has suffered already immense losses because of this added liberty. What does the future promise us? If this liberty continues to be exercised without restraint the future promises us new losses, but, worse than that, a chronic warfare in industries and in commerce.

Now, new evils call for new remedies; and fortunately for us, the remedy for this destructive warfare is now visible. Canada has shown it to us. The new law about industrial disputes in Canada is the only one in the world which offers a prospect of industrial peace, based not on obstinate fighting and then a truce, but on good will arrived at and maintained by a process of publicity, open discussion, mutual confidence, and conciliation—without the least bit of arbitration in it. Arbitration, gentlemen, is a snare, so far as industrial warfare is concerned. This Canadian law points out a better way. You will naturally ask, why did Canada succeed in getting this beneficent legislation when we have never succeeded, though our evils have been great? When no European nation has succeeded, though their evils have been great? It is because their constitution is just the reverse of ours in an important respect. As has just been set forth by Mr. Littlefield, the Constitution of the United States gives to the general government only specified powers—specified 120 years ago. The Canadian constitution does just the reverse, and gives to the general government all powers not specifically assigned to the provinces.

If you examine the public evils which have arisen in this country in connection with our cities and our industries, you will find, I think, that nearly all the difficulties are new. Cities themselves are new in the United States, having been organized long after the adoption of the Constitution. And the industrial questions are all new. There is hardly a public question now before the country that is not new since the Constitution was adopted. How can it be expected that a form of government laid down in the eighteenth century should provide the means of dealing with great public difficulties which were absolutely invisible then, which, indeed, did not arise before the middle of the nineteenth century? I believe that we need, and need sorely, some new governmental powers for dealing with these grave new difficulties. (Applause.) How the needed powers are to be obtained I know not, but it is not reasonable to suppose, gentlemen, that the means of dealing with these great new difficulties can be found in a frame of government which was created stiff, unyielding, immovable, not to be enlarged, near the close of the eighteenth century. We are now in the twentieth century, and I cannot but feel that the American people must devise effective means of contending against the social, industrial, and governmental evils which have arisen long after the adoption of the Constitution of the United States. (Applause.)

There are other supreme difficulties, gentlemen, with which our people are contending. Take the great difficulty of municipal administration. I have been speaking at many places in Massachusetts during the last three or four months in regard to municipal evils and the means of remedying them. It is to be noticed that it is legislation which has created in good measure the sources of these difficulties. Legislation has created them, in a certain sense. Of course, the changed condition of society and industry has contributed greatly; but it was the State legislatures that created cities and gave them their charters all over our country and then the changed conditions of society and commerce have thrown into our cities a very large proportion of the whole population. This is a new state of affairs. Moreover, the work or business of cities themselves is all new. When I was a boy in Boston there was neither a public water-supply, nor any system of sewers, nor any street lights except a few whale-oil lamps. The whole engineering work of a city of to-day was absolutely unknown. There were no street railways, no franchises sought eagerly for commercial profit by associations authorized by law. All these things are new in municipal governments and all need to be controlled by public ordinances, and managed by experts.

How are we to be rescued from this mortifying and dangerous condition? Only by legislation, gentlemen. It is common to say that we have too many laws already, that we want quiet, repose, and stability, that we would like to have things settled for a time. Very natural, gentlemen. But that means that these evils are to stay without remedy; and they are absolutely intolerable. Therefore I cannot but think that the next contribution of the American people to liberty, to the stability of free institutions, and to the power of the people to rule themselves and determine their own destiny—the next contribution must be more legislation, directed to the cure of the new evils and difficulties that have arisen since the legislation was adopted which has made these evils possible. (Applause.)

To recur for a moment to industrial evils, I need only say that the whole business of combination, or association of men together for common selfish purposes has resulted from legislative acts which are not yet even in the earliest instances sixty years old. It is also against those evils that we need new legislation. (Applause.)

There is another immense subject, for dealing with which we need in all our States new legislation. I refer to the great and difficult subject of taxation. In my own State the progress of almost all public improvements is now impeded, almost arrested, because of the injustice and inefficiency of the laws relating to taxation. There are many of the large industries of our country which are crippled by laws relating to taxation. It is felt in many of our communities that the laws relating to taxation are so monstrously unjust that to evade them is no reproach. That sort of injustice, gentlemen, is one of the great promoters of a new and bad phenomenon in our country—lawlessness; lawlessness on the part of the highest as well as the humblest in social standing; lawlessness on the part of great bodies of men associated together for a common gainful purpose. To meet these difficulties, new legislation is emphatically demanded. (Applause.)

Shall we decline the problem? Having caused, by our legislation in favor of great new liberties, serious dangers and evils, shall we decline the problem of remedying them? That I believe is not the spirit or the purpose of the American people. (Applause.) I believe that they will wish to try honest, promising, intelligent experiments on remedying the evils which distress us. That is the right and reasonable thing to do,—to try promising experiments for the remedying of the grave evils under which we suffer. And that is the way in which the American people can again further human freedom, and give expression and gratification to the passion for liberty which has characterized the American, as the Dutch, people. (Applause.)

When Dr. Eliot had finished his remarks and the long continued applause had died down, all present joined in Auld Lang Syne and with the orchestra rendered a medley of the popular songs of the day.

Two hundred and sixty sent regrets that they could not come, and about one half of the members made no reply whatever.

The meeting was called to order at 8.30 P.M., President Hasbrouck in the Chair. Secretary Mr. Bogert.

PRESIDENT HASBROUCK addressed the meeting as follows:

Moriturus saluto! I am only one; the rest are going to stay. I am going to put it in the manner of a very much henpecked husband, whose wife said to him one day: "I suppose if I should die you would marry again right away." He said, "No, not right off; I would like a little vacation." This is my last appearance before you as President, —I have got to take a vacation; an enforced one,

I assure you. I heard once a speaker say, whose words came from him like gurgling water from a full bottle, that he had to think before he spoke, to which he attributed his lack of fluency. Now, the Society, during the last year, has not made the progress which I hoped and as I expressed the hope when I took the office a year ago that it would make: I think I put my wishes and desires at too far a limit. I said I would like to see the Society at this time number one thousand members; then we had 930; during the year we have elected 51 members to the Society; we have lost, through death, 20, by resignation 5, so we have made only a gain of 26; to-night we number 956, which I think is a very good record for the year. (Applause.) I think it would be proper to mention among those whose names are printed upon the circulars that have been sent you, the death of John Watts De Peyster, who, you know, was the gentleman who designed our beautiful certificate of membership. I also would speak of the death of John William Van Housen, one of the earliest members elected into the Society,—the brother of our esteemed ex-President and Trustee, Judge Van Housen, and, of course, we all miss to-night the genial presence of our dearly beloved Dr. Roosa.

The invested funds of the Society this year are eleven thousand dollars; last year, ten thousand dollars, a gain of one thousand dollars, and we have, as shown on the circular, money which should be appropriated and put into the permanent investment money that is not needed for the running expenses of the Society, and which comes from sources that should be permanently invested, such as interest on investments, initiation fees, and proceeds of the sales of books and certificates—over $1200, so it should be our duty, according to my idea, shortly to make another investment of one thousand dollars.

The President has tried to be diligent and faithful in the performance of his duties, and, in the performance of his duties, the most arduous, I assure you, is that of attending the dinners of our Society. During the year—I started in early—April 15, 1907, I attended the dinner of the Huguenot Society, followed, on April 23d, by that of St. George's Society. I rested during the summer vacation, and then when the busy season came along, in November, December, and January, the President attended as representative of your Society, the Society of the Colonial Wars, the Empire State Society, Sons of the American Revolution, St. Andrew's Society, the St. Nicholas Society, the Pennsylvania Society, St. David's Society, and the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, last but not least; it was a grand dinner. Of course, our own dinner was the greatest and best of all, and that was on January 16th; I think most of you were there; if you enjoyed it as much as I did, you enjoyed it very thoroughly.

The Society "Smoker," which we had in this room here on November 26th, was a very pleasing and gratifying feature, and it added to the sociability and the intimate intercourse of the members of this Society. I am sure, from quite an extended experience, where founded like ours, upon nationality, pride of descent, and historical purposes, perhaps in no society in New York City, or anywhere that I have seen, is shown such a splendid good fellowship, such intimate acquaintance among members as is seen in our own Society Smokers. They stand around in these other societies and don't seem to know what to do as we know when we come together; when we come together the great concern is that everyone shall have a good time; I always have it.

The four meetings of the Trustees were held duly, and the business of the Society transacted, as appears from your circulars and as is always done by your Trustees; with a little pleasure thrown in; there is always enjoyment meeting together with the brother Trustees.

The President would also like to speak of a very pleasant trip made by him on the invitation of the Albany brothers of the Society, as their guest, through the courtesy of the Vice-President of the Albany Society, Mr. Elmendorf, on board of the Day Line steamer, the new steamer Hendrick Hudson, on one of its first trips to Kingston, the first old colonial town, which, during the coming summer, is going to celebrate its 250th anniversary. We had a great time up there, and after visiting the historical places of Kingston, we took a sail up to Albany on that beautiful steamer, as guests of Mr. Elmendorf; a very royal entertainer.

On Wednesday, the 19th of June, on the invitation of Dr. Demarest, President of Rutgers College, and some of the Trustees, among them, your President, Mr. John Van Wormer, and others, attended the commencement exercises and were guests at the commencement dinner of Rutgers College, an attention on the part of the Society which I know was thoroughly appreciated by that Dutch College, and by the President of that Dutch College, and the attentions shown to the President and Trustees attending were duly appreciated; a very pleasant time we had of it.

You all know that there was a visit of a ship of the Japanese navy over here at the time of the Jamestown Exposition; on that occasion a grand dinner was given in New York, attended by representatives of your Society, upon invitation, and they glorified the Society and enjoyed themselves at the dinner. I was inadvertently absent. That is one I missed; but there were present at the time Judge and Mrs. Augustus Van Wyck, Theodore M. Banta and daughters, Messrs. Hoffman, Van Wormer, and Bogert.

Then the Dutch ship Gelderland was over here at the same time, attending upon the proposed festivities at Jamestown and around there, and came up to New York when they got tired of the hilarity down there, and I would like to say that one of the most enjoyable events of the season was a dinner given by your ex-President and Trustee, Warner Van Norden, to the officers of this Dutch ship at the Metropolitan Club, which was a thoroughly, thoroughly enjoyable occasion; a very fine entertainment. (Applause.) Consul-General Planten gave a luncheon to the officers of the ship, and the officers of the Society were invited, and many of them were present. Then the officers of the ship gave a luncheon aboard the ship—a reception aboard the ship—and the ladies largely attended, then a luncheon aboard the ship the day before she sailed, on July 1, 1907, attended by the officers of the Society.

We were also invited during the year to attend the centennial of the Reformed Dutch Church of Flatbush, Ulster County, which I could not attend; duly acknowledged by the Secretary. The officers of the Society were invited to the unveiling of the monument at Wilmington, Delaware, to Thomas Francis Bayard by the Bayard Memorial Association, on June 28th. Also, during the Jamestown celebration, there were invitations sent to the Society—and duly acknowledged, but there was no representative of the Society there—to the presentation by the National Society of Colonial Dames to the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, of the old church at Jamestown, which had been restored. This was on May 11th. There was a sail down the Potomac from Richmond on the morning of the ceremonies, and on the afternoon of the day before, a reception and luncheon at Richmond by the Women's Club.

Those are the chief things besides routine business of the Society, which, as I say, was performed at the meetings of the Trustees,—the chief occurrences which happened during my incumbency of this office.

I once heard a definition of a finished orator, and it is apropos, some of you may think, of the recent occurrences of our dinner: "When a man knows when he has nothing more to speak of. When he gets there." Gentlemen, this is the extent of my preliminary remarks. (Applause.)

The minutes of the last Annual Meeting were then read by the Secretary, prefaced as follows:

THE SECRETARY: Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, the Secretary has usually the privilege of quoting to the meeting the Year Book in which the minutes have been already printed. No hilarity or levity is expected on this occasion.

(Laughter.) I have the honor of offering an abstract of the minutes of the Annual Meeting, held at Delmonico's, April 8, 1907.

On motion, the minutes of the last Annual Meeting were approved, as read.

The report of the Secretary was then presented as follows:

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The Secretary regrets to add to the list of those taken from our roll by death the name of our Vice-President for Philadelphia, Louis Y. Schermerhorn. His term of office began in 1903 and the loss of his name is coincident with our loss of a Vice-President for his county, the membership having been brought down to seven by recent deaths and resignations. The statement on our notices would indicate a total membership of 955, counting this latest decrease.

Our fixed entertainments have had their usual success; the Smoker of last November being attended by about 325 and the Annual Banquet of last January by about 378.

The Dutchess County Branch continues to make its annual dinner on October 3d one of the pleasantest and cosiest celebrations of the year, and the Bergen County Branch reports good progress toward the most populous aggregation outside of the greater city.

The souvenir of the banquet, a triangular bronze ash-tray with the seal of The Holland Society in the centre, has been distributed as customary; but, owing to its size and weight, the process has been a trifle slower than before. The menu was one of the most tasteful and attractive of recent years and across the top, inside, contained a reproduction of a typical Netherland view, showing nineteen or twenty windmills and one steam mill in one group at Koog an der Zaan.

The Trustees, at their four meetings, have elected 51 new members; 12 from New York, 1 from Brooklyn, 1 from Queens, 5 from Albany, 5 from Ulster, 1 each from Rockland, Jefferson, Oneida, and Monroe, 5 from Bergen, 5 from Passaic, 3 from Hudson, 2 from Essex, 2 from Middlesex, 1 from Union, 1 each from army and navy, 2 from Massachusetts, and 1 from Connecticut. The standing committees and their chairmen are as follows: Finance, Van Norden; Genealogy, Van Hoesen; History and Tradition, the Secretary; Statue to William the Silent, Dr. Roosa until his death, afterwards Van Norden; Hudson Tri-Centennial Celebration, Augustus Van Wyck; Tablet to Van der Capellen, Van Wormer; Quarter-Millennial Celebration of Nieuw Haerlem, Van Wormer.

The death of Neilson Abeel, Vice-President for Essex County, made a vacancy which was filled by the election of Moses J. De Witt.

Upon the death of Dr. Roosa a minute was adopted to testify to the regard in which he was held and the engrossed copy is here for your approval. The Smoker adopted a resolution endorsing the work of the Van der Capellen Committee and approving the design of the tablet. The applications of the Johnson Public Library at Hackensack and the Rutgers College Library for donations of Year Books were granted. The Library of Congress wished the Society to donate additional Year Books to take the places of some that had disappeared and, on being refused, purchased them at the current rate. It had been voted to send a set of our Year Books to the Jamestown Exposition, but this was not done because of the delay in getting that part of the Exposition into proper shape to receive books and the manager who had agreed to write for them forgot or made other plans. The Erasmus Hall High School begged the loan of an old Dutch flag for a coming celebration and the request was granted.

The congratulatory resolution to Mr. Van Wormer, your retiring President last year, was duly engrossed and delivered to him and was much admired. The adoption of a class of life members has thus far resulted in the acquisition of three names and the accompanying payments.

We received various invitations to take part in or to attend dedications and celebrations, and there were the Gelderland visit, the Kingston excursion, the Rutgers Commencement, and the Kuroki dinner.

On June 1st, the Vice-President for Albany, Mr. Elmendorf, and the Manager of the Hudson River Day Line, Mr. Olcott, invited the officers of the Society and the members who lived in Albany to take a trip to Kingston and return on the new boat, Hendrick Hudson. The affair was a great success, our President being among the passengers, and the Trustees voted thanks to Messrs. Elmendorf and Olcott and invited them to be the guests of the Society at the Annual Banquet in January.

June 17, 1907, was Commencement at Rutgers and President Hasbrouck and Messrs. Van Wormer, Van Woert, Bergen, and Elsworth attended and enjoyed the hospitality of Dr. Demarest, President of the College.

The Dutch cruiser Gelderland spent the last week or ten days of June, 1907, at this port and a set of our Year Books and souvenirs were sent to Capt. van Asbeck and were well received.

The Year Book for 1906 is finished and in the publisher's hands, and I hope it may be in your hands this month. The delays by strikes, by mislaid proofs, by well meant but exasperating errors in printing the Albany Records, and the illness of the Secretary with the grippe and fellow discomforts—all have combined to make it the most behindhand publication of the epoch and the members have kept the Secretary at work answering inquiries about it when he would have preferred to be busy upon the book and its successors for 1907 and 1908.

The ordinary correspondence of the Secretary amounts to about one hundred letters to members and others each month, and, in addition, there are the notices of the Annual Meeting and the notices of the Smoker and circulars about the Van der Capellen tablet, besides editing the Year Book, writing over one hundred pages of it, and finally correcting it all.

Then there are the labels for the Year Books, one for each member and about one hundred complimentary copies for various institutions, sister societies, etc.; the same, or nearly the same number of labels for the souvenirs, and since there are many changes of address, it is necessary to verify the addresses on each of these distributions.

The resolution adopted some years ago, that souvenirs and Year Books should not be sent to members in arrears for upwards of two years until the arrearage was liquidated, has made it necessary to keep the names of those in arrears within reach, and when the Treasurer reports a payment upon the arrears list, the Year Books and souvenirs that have been withheld must be sent out to their destination.

The responses by members to the various notices are still somewhat less prompt and careful than might be desired; for instance, out of about 950 notices with return postal cards issued for the present meeting, less than one half have responded, although it does not seem to involve much labor to fill the blanks in the postal cards and drop them in the mail.

The library has been gaining by contributions from the usual sources and among the items that may be profitably recalled are the early volumes of N. Y. Historical Society Collections, containing much that is of interest concerning the early settlement of New Amsterdam; also a volume of Albany Chronicles, lately compiled, and volumes of the Pennsylvania Society Year Book which redound to the credit of that Society's diligent and capable Secretary.

Respectfully submitted,
 HENRY L. BOGERT,
Secretary.

On motion, the report of the Secretary was received.

The annual report of the Treasurer was then presented as follows:

"Are you ready to go?" and he said: "Yes, I am." "Well," the pastor said, "I am mighty glad of it, because that makes it unanimous." (Laughter.) I am ready to go, sir. I have got to go, because that is the rule of the Society. I have had a very pleasant year in the office. I have striven all I knew how, with my bucolic education and surroundings, of the up-river County of Dutchess, to come down here and preside over your cosmopolitan and metropolitan Society. The one thing about it that makes it so pleasant is, when they retire you as President, they usually—if you have been a good President—retain you in the Board of Trustees; that is one of the finest memberships to have in the Society. I am still, I believe, a member of the Trustees and of course I shall have the pleasure of meeting with you hereafter, although not presiding over the deliberations of the Trustees or of the Society.

The work of the President—and I say this, gentlemen, as I know—is light, and it would be a presidential lack of appreciation if I did not say that the work of this Society is done by a conscientious, faithful, loyal body of Trustees and the Secretary—no society ever had a better secretary than our Society has got (loud applause); it could not have; I knew it before I was President; I thought I did, but I did not know what a help he could be; how much work he takes off the shoulders of the President; how much he does to help things move smoothly; always on the job, and he never lets the grass grow under his feet except occasionally with the Year Book. (Laughter.) The Treasurer, too, looks after the finances of the Society in the most admirable and careful manner;

everybody has got to pay his dues when due, or he has got to know why not; and the funds of the Society are carefully taken care of. I hope you will have as pleasant a time as I have had; I hope the Society will continue to prosper under your administration even more than it has under mine; "and now may good digestion wait on appetite." (Prolonged applause.)

PRESIDENT WENDELL: Ex-President Hasbrouck and the Holland Society, you have conferred upon me the greatest honor that has ever come to me. I cannot tell you how much I am impressed and how much I am pleased and honored by the action of your Committee and by your own action to-night. I think, sir, that your own leaving of this office is one thing that this Society will never be willing to consider as unanimously their desire. Your administration has been distinguished, and I can only hope that my own may be partially so. I do not know whether you gentlemen remember the story of the three Americans who were traveling abroad, one from Boston, one from Chicago, and one from New York, a number of years ago. They arrived in London, and the man from Chicago came in one day,—the others were at luncheon,—and he said: "You know, I was walking on the Strand to-day and a man came up to me and said: 'Why, Mr. Gladstone, how do you do!'" The other two gentlemen didn't say anything, but a little later on, they were in Paris—it was the time of the Empire—and the man from Boston came in, and he said: "I was walking along the Bois de Boulogne, to-day, when a gentleman approached and said: 'Ah, Monsieur l'Empereur Napoleon! it is very gracious of you to be walking around among your subjects.'"

The man from New York didn't say anything, but the next day he came in when they were sitting down to luncheon, and he said: "You know, I was walking on the Champs Élysées and a man came up to me and said: 'My God, is this you?'" (Laughter.) So, there are climaxes. Possibly the story may be familiar to you of the two Americans who were in Germany, and who, not entirely familiar with the customs, began talking louder than discreet about "the damned fool emperor," when a man came running up to them and told them to stop talking that way. He said: "You stop that! You hear! You know you have no right to talk about the emperor in his own country in that way! You stop that!" Immediately the gentlemen replied: "Really, we were not talking about your emperor; we were referring to the Austrian Emperor." And the man said, "Oh, you can't fool me. Don't you think I know that there is only one damn fool emperor?" (Laughter.) And so, gentlemen, there are climaxes. I feel mine has come to-night, and there is only one Holland Society, and we are here. I feel highly honored that my name has been added to this distinguished list. It touches me deeply, because, in the years gone by, when this Society was first founded, some of the meetings were held in my father's house. He was on the first Board of Trustees, and sometimes they would let me come in after the meetings, and I met and knew all of that original Board of Trustees; and I think the one thing about this nomination that has touched me deepest has been the fact that my name was proposed (as I have been told) by one of those gentlemen, a member of that original Board, whom

I met in those days of my young manhood, Judge Van Hoesen. (Applause.) And I want to say in this presence how much it means to me that it was his voice that was raised to make the suggestion, and I want to thank all the Committee for their goodness in following the suggestion up and you, gentlemen, for your welcome here. I only hope that I may prove partly worthy to be upon this list which has teemed with the names of such eminent and distinguished men, and that I may prove worthy to be the representative of this great Society, the ancestry of the members of which dates back to the beginning of the founding and developing of this greatest city in the greatest country on the footstool of God. (Prolonged applause.)

JUDGE GARRETSON: Mr. President, I beg leave to offer the following preamble and resolutions. I offer these resolutions with peculiar pleasure and satisfaction because of my long personal relations with the worthy gentleman referred to in them. I feel that it is more than a mere formal matter that these resolutions are presented here to-night.

RESOLUTIONS IN HONOR OF PRESIDENT
HASBROUCK

Whereas the twenty-third year of the Holland Society of New York has now come to a successful close under the administration of Hon. Frank Hasbrouck, elected President on April 8, 1907, and

Whereas the events of the year and the progress of the Society have been most gratifying to the members and their friends, be it

Resolved, that the Holland Society of New York, desiring to show its appreciation and its affectionate regard for its retiring President, embraces this opportunity to express to him its most cordial good wishes and its hope that his future career may be as clearly characterized by diligence and effectiveness as his administration of the affairs of this Society, and that the rewards of such excellent achievements may be both prompt and liberal; and be it

Further resolved that the Secretary be instructed to enter this minute upon the records of the Society and send an engrossed copy to its retiring chief officer.

The resolutions being put to a vote were adopted unanimously and, with prolonged applause, acknowledged with thanks by the new ex-president.

PRESIDENT WENDELL: The next business is the report of the Committee on Statue to William the silent: MR. VAN NORDEN:

MR. VAN NORDEN: Mr. President, I have here a statement of the money received and disbursed from the beginning; a full report of everything that has been done. The total amount received from subscriptions has been $6297 and $693.12 from interest; making a total of $6990.12. The only disbursements have been 30 cents for exchange on checks, $10.40 for printing, and $2000, payment to the sculptor. It leaves a balance on hand of $4979.42. There are subscriptions unpaid amounting to $5210. Unfortunately, in this list there have been several deaths, and of one large amount $1000, the payment has been refused by the executors on several grounds; one ground is that we have nothing to show them more than an oral expression of intention; another, more important, is that there is no money to pay it. (Laughter.) The largest subscription that has been paid so far is $1000. The largest due is $2500, which the gentleman assures me will be paid as soon as he sees a little more progress in the statue, in the preparation of the statue, and a little more interest on the part of the members of the Society in paying for it.

I feel greatly at a loss in speaking on this subject when I remember our dear Dr. Roosa, with his eloquent and witty tongue; how he used to impress us with the importance of carrying the plan into effect. There are one or two words to be said, however. One is that the time is drawing very nigh when the statue must be erected, if it is to be done at all. It is now about five years since we had the meeting at Mr. Roosevelt's house, down on Fifth Avenue, and discussed the plan; and we looked forward to 1909 as a great way off. It is now only a few months before we shall be called upon to present the statue to the city. Years have gone by and the months will go just as quickly, and yet we have made only a beginning. Now we have, so far, received money from fifty-one members of the Society. There have been, during those years since we commenced talking about the statue—and the present membership is—at least one thousand members, and we have received money from five per cent.; that is, out of every hundred members five have contributed and ninety-five have as yet given nothing. My former pastor, Dr. John Hall, used to tell about the people that came to church and sang the hymn, "Were the whole realm of nature mine." You know the "whole realm of nature" includes, besides the earth and the seas and all that therein is, and the moon and the satellites, all the stars,—the fixed stars, whose light, at the rate that light travels,—they are so distant that, beginning with the dawn of creation it has not reached us; and yet, he said, they would sing that hymn, "Were the whole realm of nature mine, that were a present far too small," yet they would put a quarter on the plate. (Laughter and applause.) Now our members, attending our meetings, have heard a great deal about the courage and endurance and patriotism and sufferings of our ancestors, and they have especially applauded the person whose statue we propose to erect, and they go away from our dinners and our smokers and our annual meetings positively dizzy with patriotism, and yet we do not get any money from them for the statue. Now, I wish that we might feel the necessity for acting at once. You have got to do it, or else we have got to give it up, and it would be a great mortification to the Society if we had to give it up. Now it only needs every member to give $35 apiece, and I think there are very few members but could afford it; if every member gave $35 apiece it would make up enough to pay for the statue; and, as there are some members perhaps that cannot afford to, other members are going to give $100, and $500, and $1000, and one man $2500,—to set against a good many delinquents. I do not use "delinquents" in an unpleasant sense; but those, perhaps, that cannot afford it. Still, we are a large Society, and with our prestige, with our position (second to none), we ought to raise that money at once—within a week—and unless we do it we shall be placed in an exceedingly mortifying position. The statue now is about ready—at least the plaster cast of it—and it ought soon to be sent to the foundry for molding and preparations made for its erection. One gentleman talked of giving the pedestal (the statue costs $25,000, the pedestal $15,000;—Dr. Roosa and I worked it all out, the cost of it and all), but, after thinking it over, the gentleman said: "I don't see why I should give that pedestal to your people, unless they do something themselves; if they came forward with a large amount and showed a disposition to raise the $25,000, you might get me to consider the other thing; but they don't," so he withdrew, and possibly never will renew his interest. I only speak of that to show that if we act promptly, possibly we can get help from the outside, which we won't get unless we show a disposition to pay up the money that is needed for the statue. Now we want $40,000 altogether. We have nearly $7000 raised. Out of that we have paid $2000 to the sculptor. We want $33,000 more. Of that, we have subscriptions that will be paid—possibly $4000, possibly only $3000; we really want about $30,000. Now, I am a poor beggar and I cannot reach you personally, and it is not incumbent on me any more than it is on you; but Dr. Roosa is gone, who took the greatest interest in this thing, and I wish you might, for his memory alone, if for no other reason, see the statue put up next year. It ought to be in position and ready to dedicate before the next annual meeting, or certainly very soon after; because the time will move along very rapidly towards the Ter-Centennial celebration in September of 1909. I do not know that I can say anything more. I wish you would take the words to heart and send a subscription to-morrow. (Applause.)

MR. VAN WORMER: As a member of that Committee, I want to make one or two practical suggestions. This money cannot be raised unless it is done by systematic work. Experience has taught all of us that a practical proposition like that must have organization behind it. Somebody has got to see the members; somebody has got to arrange to communicate with them and to do it systematically and continuously until the result is arrived at. Now, I think if the power is conferred on this Committee to use its judgment, and the power is conferred on the chairman to increase the number of the Committee, if he finds it necessary to do so, that we can set to work by organizing sub-committees, as every similar project that I have been aware of in the thirty years has been conducted in this community; and, by the coöperation of all here present working and enlisting the various centers which we have talked so much about, that it will be practicable to raise this money so that next year we can guarantee that the statue will be put in place when the artist is able to finish it. It cannot be finished, in the nature of things, quite so early as the date mentioned; but, if we can guarantee in the ter-centennial year that we have the money in hand to finish it, the artist can go on and do the work, and that will be a pretty satisfactory guarantee. I move that a resolution be adopted here to-night, giving the Committee the necessary authority to bring this result about as speedily as possible.

MR. BERGEN: Mr. President, I should like to second this motion of Mr. Van Wormer's, because the slight progress with the statue of William the Silent is really becoming embarrassing. You know the Ter-Centennial of Hudson is set down for the year 1909. I am on that Commission and I have to be rather active as chairman of a certain committee. The program of the exercises is in print. If carried out, as we hope it will be, with the appropriation made by the State and the Federal governments, aided by the features from our own land and from abroad, the program for the week, beginning, as we think now, on Saturday, September 25, 1909, and running for eight days, will be the greatest celebration ever held in the United States of America; and part of one day has been set aside for the dedication of certain memorials; and every time allusion is made to what the Holland Society may do with the statue of William the Silent it is referred to me because I happen to be of the Holland Society on the Commission and chairman of a committee, and I bow and say I hope and trust it will be attended to; not daring to tell the Commission that my own Society, including myself, are so far behind that we may have to have a Half Moon and Hudson River celebration with the Holland Society not in it. That is what it looks like after hearing from Mr. Van Norden; and that will be disgraceful. The celebration of the arrival of the Dutch ship—and we expect to have a ship, the model of the old one; we are getting some news about that to-day—and all the other celebrations of the people, the parades of the army, the regulars and the militia, the orations, the festivities, the Children's Day, the days of the cities along the Hudson River, as the procession marches up after the Half Moon is greeted, say at Sandy Hook, and so on one day after another, from Sandy Hook up to Albany and probably to Buffalo,—the celebration of the Dutch discovery of the river, and the Holland Society not in it! That is embarrassing. Really, it is disgraceful;—it would be at least disgraceful if we were not in it. I have been in the last two meetings of the Commission in the Executive Committee, and have felt very humble indeed, gentlemen. I wished to take a back seat. I would go forward and say, "I think the Society will wake up to it," but in my heart I am trembling. It does not take much after all, inasmuch as we have nearly one thousand members. Some of us have not, put down subscriptions who, I understand, are going to; but it is high time to do it, otherwise it will make every descendant of the early Dutch on the Hudson River feel that he had better get off the Commission and let the others run it. I am lacking myself as much as I say you are lacking. I want my subscription to get in. I intend it to get in. I think I ought to put it in very quickly, and before I leave to-night I shall put it in. But let us begin! If we have any sense of honor, let us do something. Really, a Hudson River celebration and the Dutch out of it!—Well, I will let some man who has a command of rhetoric picture the result. (Applause.)

JUDGE VAN WYCK: Mr. Chairman, I do not know when this meeting will ever wake up unless it shall be by the adoption of the course suggested by Mr. Van Norden, but we shall reach the result. Twenty years ago I moved that an equestrian statue be reared to William the Silent, after we had disputed and quarreled over the distinguished ancestors of the Dutch of New York. Now the trouble in this whole matter, in my judgment, has been that this Society has never been made to believe that a statue to William the Silent was to be erected. You want to convince this Society, and the friends of this Society, and gentlemen, such as Mr. Van Norden has referred to, who made the offer with regard to the pedestal. There will be no trouble in raising the money. The people, members of this Society and their sympathizers and friends, want to know whether there is a statue to be erected. Now if this Society determines, once for all, that it is to be erected, and gives the Committee the power to raise the money and use its judgment in raising it, there will be no difficulty with the statue. It will evolve. I, with great pleasure, heartily second the motion of Mr. Van Wormer.

MR. VAN WORMER: I offer these resolutions.

RESOLVED that this Society should take immediate action and perfect an organization, with sub-committees and other working methods, to bring directly and forcibly to every individual member of the Holland Society the plan for erecting a statue to William the Silent, which has been adopted by the Society and to which the Society is emphatically committed.

And it is further RESOLVED that the present Committee be authorized to take the necessary steps to carry out the foregoing views.

On putting the foregoing resolutions to vote, they were carried unanimously.

The Committee on Hudson Ter-Centennial Celebration reported progress through its chairman, Hon. Augustus Van Wyck, who referred to the remarks of Mr. Bergen upon the subject of the proposed statue to William the Silent as a substantial report for this committee.

The Committee on Tablet to Van der Capellen reported through Hon. John R. Van Wormer, its chairman, as follows:

MR. VAN WORMER: Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Holland Society, I am highly gratified to announce on behalf of the Committee that the tablet came to New York to-day and will be on exhibition in the Gorham Company's front window to-morrow morning. (Applause.)

It is a beautiful work of art, and the results already developed in connection with this project have proved that if you bring to the direct attention of this Society something tangible, something direct, something that speaks for itself and appeals to the loyalty and patriotism of its members, you can wake them up and you can do it in no other way. Now we started modestly with this patriotic project. It has excited a great deal of attention throughout Holland and the Netherlands; it has brought to the attention of many a student, many a statesman, and many a bright citizen of Holland the first echo of the events of the Revolution, as Holland and France and England bore upon it, and has set them thinking about the remarkable parallels between the great compact of Utrecht, which was so useful to our statesmen when they framed the Constitution, and has made them believe that they are a great deal nearer to the people of the United States now than they were years and years ago.

This man was almost forgotten, and yet think of the fight he made in the legislature of the province of Overijssel against vested authority, against English prejudice, entrenched in the aristocracy and in the royal family,—for it was so called at that time.—Absolutely the one man who started the fight, and little by little other exponents took it up and carried it forward until, though they were able to drive this hero out of the legislature of Overijssel and deprive him of his knighthood, inside of four years, in 1782, the people arose in their might and swept his opponents out of existence, restored his knighthood, gave him back his position in the legislature, and sent him to the higher body of the States-General, and ultimately passed a resolution recognizing the independence of the colonies of North America as the United States of America. Then he raised that loan of eight million dollars, that was paid over to the treasury of the Continental Congress, and went to Washington to assist him in quelling the mutiny of the dissatisfied—and justly dissatisfied—soldiers of the Revolution, so outrageously treated and dealt with by the Continental Congress. He paved the way for the coming of John Adams as Minister; and remember, when that debt was paid under the magical financial constructiveness of Alexander Hamilton, it amounted to fourteen millions of dollars with interest, and that money constituted the fund which enabled the Holland Land Company to sell land in mid-western and southwestern New York and in the State of Pennsylvania, and aided the settlers of the then unsettled portion of this State and other States to become American citizens and contribute their thrift to the up-building of our nation.

This man's grave was desecrated after he died because of the hatred of certain people against him, and now it devolves upon this Society to pay the tribute of just recognition to that hero. George Washington wrote an explicit letter that now reposes in the museum at Zwolle; the Continental Congress of the United States adopted a strong resolution recognizing the superb services of this hero, but they stopped at that. Jonathan Trumbull was speedy in sending his recognition and it brought a magnificent response.

Now, the members of this Society have shown their interest practically in the matter. We have received about $400, in contributions from $1 to $10, from 91 members, and we understand there is more on the way, and we shall be grievously disappointed if a good many members here to-night do not leave their contributions behind them before they leave the room. This is a sort of Methodist way to do it, which all of us who were brought up in the country were familiar with when we were young. Now we have got the tablet and the tablet is going to be paid for, and the circular of the Committee to the members reminded them that it was to be a general contribution, and that is what we want it to be.

I am going to Zwolle myself, to represent the Committee and Society, if the Society wants me to, and I want to tell the gentlemen over there just exactly what our feelings are. I shall not want to talk Dutch politics to them, because that is not our province, and they have troubles enough of their own and don't want our assistance. I was there not very long ago, and found they had developed a magnificent spirit. J. M. Sillem, of Amsterdam, one of the most distinguished scholars and one of the most magnificent gentlemen of Holland, was the biographer of Van der Capellen, and W. H. DeBeaufort published his life and letters. The latter lives at Utrecht, and they have treated the Committee and the Society with the most distinguished courtesy; they have lavished every possible attention upon us, and the president of the province of Overijssel, Mr. P. Lyclama à Nyeholt (who, unfortunately, has suffered a stroke of paralysis recently, so that he has been incapacitated for a considerable length of time) immediately communicated with Mr. Sillem and wrote him on behalf of the Society for the Study of Jurisprudence and History in Overijssel, a very distinguished historic body, identified with the preservation of the archives of that province; and they agreed immediately to take charge of the whole work, contracting to install the tablet on the house where Van der Capellen lived just before his death, and they have procured the consent of the owner and the man who occupies it. It is in one of those streets that one of our streets in New Amsterdam is named after. They will be all ready when they get word about it, and this tablet is here now and we can see our way clear to paying for it with your help. Remember all the time, with your help !! We can fix a date sometime early in June for the installation of that tablet, and it will be a source of very great delight to the Committee, and, I am sure, to the members of the Board of Trustees, if as many of the members of the Society as possible were represented at Zwolle at that time. A notice will be sent out to that effect, so that you may be fully informed in respect to all the details. Now, if you will remember this, and be quick about it, we are going to send out an additional circular when we have got the last dollar here, and I want to see a whole lot of additions to it to-night or when it is convenient to you; only within a reasonable time, because you understand we have this other work here, this statue to William the Silent, and we have got to hunt Dutchmen and hunt them with good strong weapons that will bring down what we are after. I hope every member of this Society, who possibly can, will go down to the Gorham establishment and see this tablet. In my opinion it is an exquisite work of art; five feet high, three feet wide; the dies stand out just as clear and sharp as crystal, and the imprint can be read for a very considerable distance; the seal of the Society is at the top, and the arms of the City of New York, of the State of New York, of the Netherlands, and of Overijssel are on the respective corners of the tablet.

Now, gentlemen, we hope that you will remember that this is one of the events in the history of the Holland Society, one of the events which will make our young men, if it is followed up intelligently and systematically, appreciate more profoundly and with a keener sense of abiding interest, what American loyalty and American patriotism are, and that it is their duty to build it up not only with their own children, but with everybody with whom they come in contact. (Prolonged Applause.)

JUDGE VAN WYCK: I move that all members of the Holland Society that attend the ceremonies at Zwolle be constituted a Committee of this Society to represent it on that occasion, and that Mr. Van Wormer, who is certain to be there, be chairman of that Committee.

There being no discussion the motion was carried unanimously.

The report of the Committee on Tablet to Van der Capellen also contained a copy of the circular letter to the members of the Society, which is reproduced here, and it was noted that the Empire State Society, Sons of the American Revolution, had passed appreciative resolutions upon the subject, which were published on the day of this meeting in the Sunday Courier, Poughkeepsie, as follows:

HOLLAND SOCIETY TO ERECT TABLET.

We have already referred in our columns to the fact that the Holland Society, of New York, of which Judge Frank Hasbrouck is President, is to erect this summer at Zwolle, in Holland, a bronze tablet on the walls of the former home of Baron Joan Dirck Van der Capellen in commemoration of his active sympathy and assistance and of his services to the struggling American Colonies during the Revolutionary War.

This patriotic act on the part of the Holland Society is meeting with universal approbation.

Among the recent expressions on this subject was a series of resolutions passed at a meeting of the Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, a copy of which follows:

WHEREAS: The invaluable services to the cause of American Liberty and Independence rendered by Baron Joan Dirck Van der Capellen, of Holland, in raising a gold loan for our Colonies at a most critical juncture, and in winning over many in the Netherlands to the American cause, have not been as fully understood or acknowledged as they should have been by our people, therefore

RESOLVED: That the Empire State Society, Sons of the American Revolution, considers the action of the Holland Society of New York, in erecting in Zwolle, Holland, on the walls of the former home of Baron Van der Capellen, a bronze tablet as a visible testimonial in Europe of the grateful appreciation of the American people of his noble efforts in our behalf, as a cause for national congratulation and gratitude; also

RESOLVED: That this Society extends to the Holland Society, of New York, its most cordial, grateful, and fraternal appreciation of this most timely and noble undertaking, and hopes that it may be carried out to a most satisfactory completion.

W. A. MARBLE,
President.
LOUIS AMIN AMES,
Secretary.

(Seal.)

The circular letter to members is as follows:

THE HOLLAND SOCIETY OF NEW YORK.

VAN DER CAPELLEN, AMERICA'S FRIEND IN THE REVOLUTION.

To the Members of the Holland Society :

In this time of our strength and prosperity as a Nation, we may well recall one of the most critical junctures in the struggle of the North American Colonies with Great Britain, when Baron Joan Derck van der Capellen, of Holland, rendered to our sorely beset patriots services that were of signal importance, because without foreign help the situation was well-nigh hopeless. The fearless, aggressive, and persistent fight which the Baron made upon English intrigue and unscrupulous court dominance at The Hague; his success in placing before the Dutch and English peoples concise recitals of the facts and merits of the conflict, from the American point of view; the bitter emphasis laid by him upon the disreputable methods of the English King and his prime-minister in their Continental diplomacy, in their employment of German mercenaries, and in their infamous alliances with the Indians; the ultimate winning over of the common people and even some of the aristocracy of the Netherlands to the American cause; the raising of a gold loan of substantial amount on behalf of the Colonies, to which Van der Capellen contributed liberally out of his own not too liberal fortune; the payment of the loan into the Continental treasury in time to assist Washington in controlling the mutiny of the unpaid soldiers at Newburgh and elsewhere; preparing the way for John Adams as the first American Minister to The Hague; and the final recognition of the independence of the young Republic by the States-General of the Netherlands,—these were indeed notable achievements, accomplished by Van der Capellen at the sacrifice of health, position, and fortune. In life, indignities were heaped upon him; after death, the place of his burial was desecrated. What he accomplished in the interest of the Colonies was a matter of note in the history of the period. Thus far the people of this country have failed to erect in the Netherlands a suitable and enduring monument in recognition of the debt which the American people and humanity at large owe to this modest champion of personal and constitutional liberty. Is it not fitting that this omission should be rectified by the Holland Society, of New York, whose freedom-loving and intrepid ancestors participated in the Revolutionary conflict and left their firm imprint on the social and political institutions of the new Republic?

In the days of his fatiguing struggle against entrenched wrong, Van der Capellen received expressions of cordial appreciation from Governor Jonathan Trumbull, of Connecticut, from Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, and Thomas Jefferson, and from George Washington, who wrote a characteristic letter of approval and gratitude, which is now preserved in the Museum at Zwolle, in the Netherlands.

It has been determined by resolution of the Board of Trustees of the Holland Society and confirmed by vote of the members, informally gathered at the Hotel Astor in November last, that there should be erected at Zwolle, on the walls of the house occupied by Van der Capellen before his death, a bronze tablet commemorating his services to our infant Colonies.

The admirable design submitted by the Gorham Company of New York, a photograph of which has been exhibited, has been accepted and the order for the tablet given. It will be five feet high and three feet wide. About three months will be required for the casting and finishing of the tablet, after which it will be exhibited at the Gorham Company's main building, corner Fifth Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street. Later, it will be forwarded by express to its destination. Some time in June, 1908, the ceremony of installation will take place at Zwolle, under the auspices of the Governor of the Province of Overyssel and of the Overyssel Society for the Study of Jurisprudence and History. The appearance of the Tablet is shown below.

The Board of Trustees and a large number of the members of the Society think it desirable that the expense of the tablet be defrayed by a general members' subscription of from one to ten dollars. The tablet will cost seven hundred dollars, and the necessary incidental expenses will add one hundred and fifty or two hundred dollars, making a total of nine hundred dollars. Checks and money orders should be made payable to Arthur H. Van Brunt, the treasurer of the Society. All correspondence and enclosures should be forwarded to the Chairman of the "Committee on Tablet," No. 32-38 East 42d Street, New York City.

The Board of Trustees and the Committee, on behalf of the Society, take advantage of this opportunity to thank the Rev. William Elliot Griffis, D.D., LL.D., for his thoughtfulness in bringing Baron Van der Capellen's services to the attention of the Society, and for his willing and intelligent labor in corresponding with persons of eminence in the Netherlands, through which light has been shed on the subject and from which have been derived important additions to the archives of the Society.

Mention should also be made of the extreme politeness and interest in the proposed tablet, displayed by Mr. J. A. Sillem, of Amsterdam, biographer of Van der Capellen; by Mr. W. H. de Beaufort, publisher of his Life and Letters; by Hon. P. Lyclama à Nyeholt, Governor of the Province of Overijssel; and by the officers and members of the Overijssel Society for the Study of Jurisprudence and History.

A prompt response to this notice will be appreciated and will materially contribute to the success of the Committee's efforts.

JOHN R. VAN WORMER, Chairman,
32-38 East 42d Street, New York City.
HENRY L. BOGERT, Secretary.
ARTHUR H. VAN BRUNT, Treasurer,
54 Wall Street, New York City.

Committee on Tablet.

On motion, the report of the Committee on Tablet to Van der Capellen was unanimously received and approved.

PRESIDENT WENDELL: The next order of business is the report of the Committee on the Nieuw Haarlem Quarter Millennial Celebration; again we call on Mr. Van Wormer.

MR. VAN WORMER: I guess you will think I am the hired man of the Society; but I should say that the matter has been threshed out pretty thoroughly. I have communicated with all the members of the original Committee and with twenty-five or thirty gentlemen besides, including our dear friend Judge Van Hoesen. The consensus of opinion seems, under the circumstances, to be that there could not be adequate time before next year for having a proper sort of celebration of that event. The date is sufficiently identified with the founding of Haarlem under Stuyvesant to warrant that very slight latitude. I am satisfied that it is entirely practicable to make up a Committee of say 25, and the power has already been granted by the Board of Trustees to the Committee, of which I have the honor to be the Chairman; and I have found that we can get the most ardent outside coöperation on the part of patriotic societies; and that the local organizations of Harlem are all ready to contribute their part in the way of suggestions and money, and under any plans that are practicable, which may be suggested by the Committee and endorsed by the local bodies in Haarlem. I have a very considerable amount of correspondence here, a part of which outlines a very intelligent programme which may be put into operation when the time comes; and we will have a meeting of the Committee again and I will make a further report between now and the time the Trustees meet at their next stated meeting.

On motion the report was received and approved.

PRESIDENT WENDELL: The next order of business is the memorial to Dr. Roosa.

MR. VAN WORMER: It is, perhaps, in order to explain that the Trustees at their last meeting thought that the death of so honorable, so eminent, and so useful a man, not only in the Holland Society but in the community, ought to receive more than usual consideration; therefore, the Board of Trustees saw fit to designate me, as a very close and very old friend of the dear Doctor, to put down something that might go down to history in the Year Book of the Society, and which might be plainly engrossed and a copy sent to Mrs. Roosa, together with a copy of the Year Book containing the notice. I have gone into a little more length for the reasons indicated.

DANIEL BENNETT ST. JOHN ROOSA, M.D., M.A., LL.D., died in the city of New York, March 8, 1908.

Employing only terms of accuracy and indulging in no shadow of exaggeration, it may be said of our departed friend, Dr. Roosa, that he was one of "Nature's Noblemen." To him the Holland Society was an enthusiasm. He loved it, believed in its purposes, and loyally and fervently promoted its objects through good and ill repute. His brother trustees and fellow members trusted and admired him and sought the light of his attractive presence. Wisdom marked his counsel and kindly consideration tempered his every relationship. We can but pay our tribute to his manly worth, his helpfulness, and his Christian standards. His record is as nearly perfect as it falls to the lot of man to possess. Our mourning over his taking away is well-nigh inconsolable.

Professionally Dr. Roosa was eminent: as a man and citizen few of his contemporaries possessed like capacity for usefulness, his breadth of mind, keenness of perception, discriminating sympathy, his courage, faith, integrity, and prodigious capacity for work of a high order. In fact, he was, in the best sense of the term, a "leader of men." Personal magnetism and the power to command the affection, confidence, and coöperation of others was a conspicuous trait. His mental training, studiousness, wide practical experience, and versatility made it possible for him to achieve results which contributed to the advancement of his profession and to the uplifting of the community. His convictions were positive and clearly defined and he was intensely loyal to principle. He was an American of Americans. How could it have been otherwise in view of his distinguished and intrepid ancestry? He believed in clean and efficient civic processes, which should have the ardent support of every citizen, at whatever inconvenience to himself, and which should confer perpetual and growing benefits upon the governed. Another peculiarity of his, which wholly challenged admiration, was his steadfast devotion to the City, State, and Nation. He was a model optimist. He believed profoundly in the fabric of Government woven by the fathers: in its fundamental principles and in its puissant and inherent strength. No untoward manifestation of popular frenzy, the flame of which was fanned by the demagogue; no temporary aberration of the public mind; no Cassandra prophecies, which poisoned the air in periods of calamity and depression, impaired his splendid faith and belief in the sanity and saving grace of the preponderating masses of the American People, and who can say with reason that the outcome has not invariably justified such faith? The career which we contemplate has been eminently satisfactory. All through his efficient life his personality radiated "sweetness and light" and his example was an inspiration. In the domestic relationship many of his finest traits were brought out. He was the admirer and exponent of good women and those who asked of him a helping hand were never rebuffed. One who inquires particularly into his daily associations cannot but be delightfully impressed with the response called forth by his gentle and affectionate consideration for those among whom he moved, were they good, bad, or indifferent.

Our friend was born in Bethel, Sullivan County, N. Y., April 4, 1838. He would have been seventy years old Saturday, April 4, 1908, had his life been prolonged. He was a son of Charles Baker and Amelia Elmer Foster Roosa: great-grandson of Isaac A. Roosa, a lieutenant in a New York regiment of the Continental Army. The Doctor's first wife was Mary Hoyt Blake, a daughter of Stephen M. Blake of New York. She died in 1878. In the following year he married Sarah Elizabeth Haughwout, who survives. There were no children by either marriage.

Dr. Roosa was on all sides of Colonial descent, both Dutch and French, as well as English. All his great-grandfathers, Roosa, Duryea, Heard, and Foster, were officers in the Continental Army.

Dr. 'Roosa's preliminary education was received at the district school of his native village and the academies of Monticello, N. Y., and Honesdale, Pa. In 1856 he entered Yale, but was forced to leave in a few months because of ill health. His studies were continued under a private tutor until the fall of the following year, when he entered the Medical Department of the New York University. He also took special courses in the laboratory of Professor John W. Draper.

In 1860 he received the degree of M.D. from the university, and by a competitive examination became assistant to the house surgeon at the New York Hospital. In April of the following year, when President Lincoln called for 75,000 volunteers to meet the exigencies of the Civil War, the doctor enlisted and was assigned to the Fifth Regiment of the National Guard of the State of New York, as assistant surgeon. Dr. Roosa served the three months' term of enlistment, and returning to New York, completed his service in the New York Hospital as house surgeon. He then spent a year in Europe in study of the ophthalmic clinics in Berlin and Vienna. In June, 1863, he volunteered with the Twelfth Regiment, N. G., S. N. Y., and was sent to Pennsylvania only a short time before the battle of Gettysburg. On the completion of his term of service in the army he engaged in private practice in this city, chiefly in ophthalmology and otology. From 1864 to 1882 he was Professor of Diseases of the Eye and Ear at the Medical School of New York University, and from 1875 to 1880 he held a similar place at the University of Vermont. In 1879 he was made President of the American Otological Society and honorary Vice-President of the Ophthalmological Meeting in Edinburgh in 1894. He was President of the New York Academy of Medicine in 1893 and in 1894, and was one of the founders and surgeons of the Eye and Ear Hospital.

Dr. Roosa is believed to have been the first to conceive the idea of organizing a medical school for post-graduate work. With several other physicians he founded the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital in 1882.

In addition to a number of works of his own on the eye and ear, Dr. Roosa was a frequent contributor to medical journals and translated several medical works written by Germans. He took a keen interest in public affairs and was one of the leaders at Albany twenty years ago in favor of the change in the code, making all those who passed the State Regents' Medical Examinations equal before the law, whether homeopaths, osteopaths, or otherwise.

It may be proper at this point to mention more in detail one medical institution, which was especially near and dear to Dr. Roosa's professional pride and to his heart, and that is "The New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital." The following is quoted from The Medical Critic of January, 1902:

"The founding of the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital was the first attempt in this country to provide advanced courses especially arranged to meet the needs of graduates in medicine, entirely apart from an undergraduate school. The plan was first formulated among the faculty in the Medical Department of New York University in 1875. Medicine and surgery were making rapid advances at this time, and the busy physician, lacking the time necessary for extensive reading, found himself out of touch with the newer ideas and methods, and for this reason large numbers were coming to New York, as the natural center, in order to avail themselves of the vast amount of clinical material which was here, either to extend their knowledge in various branches or to prepare themselves to take up a specialty.

"Others, more recently graduated from the smaller schools, found that their training had been almost entirely theoretical, and that practical work was absolutely necessary before they could start out and carry on a practice in a manner that would be satisfactory to themselves and their patients. A course of post-graduate lectures was begun at the university in 1875 and an endeavor was made to provide the work desired by the visiting physicians. This was, however, only partially successful. The hours were too few and the modern methods of post-graduate teaching were not known.

"April 4, 1882, at a meeting held at the office of Dr. D. B. St. John Roosa, the post-graduate faculty of the university decided to resign and found a separate post-graduate school, where doctors could find the work which they so much desired, arranged and ready for them. The college was incorporated under the general law, rooms were secured in the College of Pharmacy on 23d Street, and a beginning was made. Dr. Roosa was the first President and continued in that office until his death. Growth was rapid. In 1884 a new and larger building was secured at 226 East 20th Street, between Second and Third Avenues, where there could be a dispensary and hospital under the same roof. The growth continuing, land was purchased at the Northeast corner of Second Avenue and 20th Street and the seven story building now occupied by the school was erected and opened in May, 1894, designed with the utmost care to combine a school and hospital in such a way that the welfare of the patient should be fully protected, and at the same time the good work might be many times magnified, where the newer ideas and advanced methods were brought out in such a way that the doctors present from all parts of the country could adopt them and on their return home use them in their own practice. As far as possible the Vienna Poliklinik was made the model of the methods of instruction."

This great creation was the apple of Dr. Roosa's eye. Outside his private practice, the Post-Graduate School and Hospital was his headquarters and his personal atmosphere pervaded the place.

Two honorary degrees were conferred upon the Doctor, the degree of M.A., by Yale, and that of LL.D., by the University of Vermont. In 1904, a largely attended dinner was given to Dr. Roosa, at Delmonico's, by representative medical teachers from all over the country, to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Post-Graduate Hospital, and he was presented with a loving cup for his services in the cause of post-graduate instruction. This was a richly deserved tribute.

Dr. Roosa joined the Union League Club in 1868. He was one of its most influential and patriotic members. His opinions had great weight with his fellows and his acquaintance was held to be an acquisition and always carried with it strong personal affection.

Dr. Roosa joined the Saint Nicholas Society of this city, June 1, 1874, and was a prime favorite with his associates. December 23, 1885, the Doctor joined The Holland Society of New York. In 1896 he was President of the Society. His service as Trustee was protracted and was only terminated by his death. The value of the work done by him in this capacity cannot well be overvalued. His advocacy of a proposition was so eloquent that it begat enthusiasm and carried conviction. Official associates and a multitude of friends in the Society will cherish his memory and affectionately recall his numerous personal charms and his dignified personal attributes. The loss sustained by the Society in the death of this noble man cannot be adequately measured by words. (Concludes reading.) (Applause prolonged and repeated.)

JUDGE VAN WYCK: The able review that has been presented to us by Mr. Van Wormer, of the splendid life of our dead friend, cannot be added to. It is beautiful, truthful, and uplifting, and he may be a model to those who sit here, even to those who follow after you. I notice in the last year death has called from our membership twenty-one members,—a very large percentage; but their loss, or our loss, rather, has added a splendid list to the home not made by the hands of man. Death, sir, is called grim-visaged; that is, viewed from our standpoint, to those of us that are left here to bemoan their loss; but we should recollect, sir, that "Good-night" on earth is but "Good-morning" in a better and purer, and, indeed, a higher life; and I cannot but believe that Roosa and his associates will be as fully appreciated by the denizens of that world as they were with us. I do not care to prolong these sad rites, but I could not let this opportunity pass without paying tribute to my and your dead friend. Man and woman, by the aid of Deity, never made a better man than Dr. Roosa; he was one of God's chosen; none knew him but to love him and respect him. To his family he was kind, gentle, and made them happy as he made us happy, when he lent his presence and his aid to the building up of this great Society, that represented an ancestry that he believed in, and that he loved, whose traditions were to him as sacred as the word of Holy Writ. As a citizen he was a patriot; when his country was in danger he went to the front, and when peace came he devoted himself to her interests; never losing a citizen's interest in her welfare and in the work and regeneration of the country. In his profession he reached the top. In his love for this Society and its traditions he was unceasingly devoted. I never knew a man that had greater influence upon the counsels of a body that he took part in than Dr. Roosa. In every association of life, whether it be an ancestral society like this, or the medical profession, or any other calling or profession of life, he reached the top. He received every honor at the hands of his associates; can anyone doubt then that in that next new world the honors of that world will be showered upon him as they were here? He was no hypocrite, he despised hypocrisy; yet he was not arrogant in his ideas and in the presentation of them he was always open to conviction. I say to you, this Society, his family, his profession, have met a loss that cannot be replaced, for it is seldom permitted that a character so well-balanced, a life so well-rounded, is given to one human being.

I join with this Society in paying intense respect to his memory and extending the warmest sympathy to his family, and we join with them in moistening his grave with our tears. Grand! noble! splendid character! His memory, may it ever be a guide of all to a loftier life, and his devotion to this Society ever be an incentive to follow it up to the highest possible expectancy! Good-bye, Dr. Roosa! We will never again hear his voice here; his good cheer; his wise counsel. I for years have known him intimately and I have never yet met in counsel with him that at some point, by argument, good cheer, he did not drive the influence of his character to the final conclusion of that counsel. And he was not bitter. If there was a conflict in the counsel, the majority, if he was with it, won the minority by his kind and gentle words; and, if he was in the minority, still his good cheer—however he yielded under conviction,—joined the majority to him in the end. Good-bye, good-bye, Dr. Roosa! (Applause.)

PRESIDENT WENDELL: Every man in the room must have been deeply impressed by this eloquent resolution and this wonderful tribute. The Chair would suggest that the resolution and the seconding remarks be accepted by a rising vote. (The rising vote was taken unanimously.) They are unanimously carried, gentlemen.

PRESIDENT WENDELL: The meeting is now open for miscellaneous business. If there is no miscellaneous business, the Chair is now disposed to entertain a motion to adjourn.

On motion duly made and seconded, unanimously carried, the meeting adjourned.

HENRY L. BOGERT,
Secretary.

IN MEMORIAM

JOHN GOLDSMITH PRALL. Born October 29, 1882, died April 22, 1907. Ancestry: John Howard Prall, born October 26, 1855, and Sarah D. Goldsmith; John Parker Prall, born March 8, 1819, and Elizabeth M. Wheaton; William Livingston Prall, born March 16, 1788, and Charlotte Parker; John Prall born September 20, 1756, and Amelia Coryell; Peter Prall, born February 6, 1722, and Sarah ; Peter Prall, born March 29, 1700; Peter Prall born circa 1677; Arent Prall (or Praal) from Holland circa 1660.

He was elected to membership in The Holland Society March 9, 1905, being then a student in Columbia University. On Sunday, April 21, 1907, while still pursuing his studies, he was stricken with spinal meningitis and succumbed to this fatal malady on the following day. He was a young man of great promise, endeared to a wide circle, and the morning of life had shown no sign of this early sunset. His father, an honored member of the Society, was away from home and his return was one of sadness. The interment was in Greenwood. The Prall family resided at Morningstar, Staten Island, before 1700, then in Amwell, New Jersey, for half a century, next in Prallsville, N. Y., for about a hundred years, settling in N. Y. City before the birth of John Howard Prall.

JOHN WATTS DE PEYSTER. Elected April 6, 1886, died May 4, 1907. Gen. de Peyster was born March 9, 1821, at No. 3 Broadway, being the sixth generation of that name born in the First Ward of New York City and the seventh generation that had resided there. He died at 59 East 21st Street and was buried at Tivoli, N. Y. He had suffered several years with a complication of diseases. He survived wife and children, leaving four grandchildren, viz.: Mrs. E. S. Hosmer; Mrs. John de Peyster Toler, Mrs. H. T. Martin, and Mrs. Garrett S. Kip.

The de Peyster family is traced to the thirteenth century, being first known as de Paistre. Very early it was among the patrician families of Ghent, and was represented almost continually in the city government and among the leaders of the guilds. When the Dutch revolted against Spain, some of the Ghent branch moved to Amsterdam and to Haerlem. From the latter city about 1640 came Johannes de Peyster to settle in New York, where he became alderman, burgomaster, deputy mayor, and refused the mayoralty because of his inadequate acquaintance with the English language. He married in New York Cornelia Lubberts, also born in Haerlem. From Johannes the line of descent is as follows: Abraham (I), his eldest son, was born July 8, 1657, and married April 5, 1684, Catherine de Peyster, at Amsterdam, Holland. He was alderman, mayor, colonel of militia, judge of supreme court, president of council, acting-governor and first provincial treasurer. He died August 1728, in New York. Abraham (II), his eldest son, was born August 28, 1696, married July 1, 1722, Margaret Van Cortlandt and died December 17, 1700. He was the second provincial treasurer of New York and New Jersey. James, his eldest son, was born February 6, 1726, married Sarah Reade and died at Jamaica, L. I., July 27, 1799. Frederic (I), his son, was born December 10, 1758, and married Helen Hake. Frederic (II), his son, was born November 11, 1796, married May 15, 1820, Mary Justina Watts, and died August 17, 1882, leaving their only son John Watts de Peyster.

Gen. de Peyster was educated by private tutors and at Columbia College, where he became interested in reading military history with his celebrated cousin, Major-Gen. Phil. Kearny.

In 1841 he married Estelle, daughter of John Swift Livingston, and they lived in the de Peyster mansion at Tivoli, N. Y., where they celebrated their golden wedding in May, 1891.

In 1846, Mr. de Peyster entered the state military service and was commissioned colonel, and later brigadier general, being the first officer of that rank appointed by the governor. The State of New York, with the endorsement of the federal government, sent him to Europe in 1851 as its military agent. He made a complete report of the organization of European militia and municipal military forces, which was of great service in the Civil War. He returned to this country in 1857.

President Lincoln could not accept his offer of three regiments just prior to the Civil War nor again in the autumn of 1861. His health at the time prevented him from taking an active part, but his three sons served with distinction. Two lost their lives there, John Watts de Peyster, Jr., who was brevetted Colonel for distinguished services at Chancellorsville, and Frederic de Peyster, who was brevetted Colonel for gallantry at the first battle of Bull Run. His third son, Johnston L. de Peyster, raised the first United States flag over Richmond in 1865 and was brevetted Colonel in recognition of his services. Mr. de Peyster himself was brevetted major general by special act of the N. Y. State legislature in 1866.

His first literary work of importance was the Life of Leonard Torstenson, Field Marshal Generalissimo of Sweden, which was published in 1855, and for which he received three silver medals from King Oscar of Sweden and Norway. Other publications were: Practical Strategy, as Illustrated by the Achievements of the Austrian Field Marshal Traun; Secession in Sweden and in the United States

Compared; The Decisive Conflicts of the Late Civil War; Personal and Military History of Major-General Philip Kearny; The Dutch at the North Pole, and works on Bothwell and Mary, Queen of Scots; Bonaparte, Blücher and Waterloo; and various scientific pamphlets. Various societies and universities, recognizing his scientific and literary attainments, conferred upon him high honorary degrees.

He was actively interested in municipal affairs, being instrumental in the establishment of a paid fire department and contributing largely to the reorganization of the police, with permanent beneficial results.

His charities were widespread. He completed a church and built a parish school in memory of his daughter Maria, at Altoona, Penn.; built an Episcopal church at Natchitoches, La., and restored it after the war; built a home for consumptives, and a hospital and home for invalid children, and furnished a home for girls, in Dutchess County; and built a Methodist church at Madalin, N. Y. The New Jersey and Pennsylvania legislatures sent him their thanks for portraits of military celebrities which he had presented to them. He gave the State of New York a bronze bas-relief, representing the Continental Camp at West Point during the Revolution; erected and equipped a library building for Franklin and Marshall College; gave property valued at $250,000 to the Leake and Watts Orphan Asylum at Yonkers, to which institution he recently presented his country home, Rose Hill, Tivoli; and gave to the Smithsonian Institution valuable objects of art, books, and statuary. To the city of Kearny, Neb., he presented a bronze bust of Gen. Kearny and erected a chapel at Nebraska City as a memorial to his sons. The life-size statue of Abraham de Peyster in Bowling Green Park was presented to the City of New York by General de Peyster.

The General was a member of the Royal Historical Society of Great Britain, the Maatschappij der Nederlandsche Letterkunde of Leyden, and honorary fellow of the Society of Letters, Science, and Art, of London, which awarded him its gold medal in 1891. On April 6, 1886, he became a member of The Holland Society and was largely instrumental in designing its notable certificate of membership, for which service the Society ordered further recognition at the annual meeting, April 6, 1905, in the following resolution:

Whereas, our highly esteemed friend and fellow member, Gen. J. Watts de Peyster, who designed the present certificate of membership in the Society, unequalled for historic and symbolic interest and artistic excellence, has expressed the wish to have his own membership certified in this form.

Resolved that, in recognition of services rendered to The Holland Society, a certificate of his membership be prepared and presented to Gen. J. Watts de Peyster with the best wishes of the Society for his continued prosperity and happiness.

Some of his writings will be found in the Year Books of 1898, 1899, and 1900. Many obituary sketches appeared in the press of this country and a long special dispatch was printed in the Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant on May 16, 1907.

NEILSON ABEEL. Elected March 9, 1905, died May 18, 1907, was a descendant of Stoffel (Christopher) Janse Abeel, who was born 1621, and came from Holland about 1653, and married Neeltje Janse Kroom (or Croom). They settled at Albany, then Beaverwyck. Their son John was born March 23, 1667, married April 10, 1694, Catherine Schuyler, and became Mayor of Albany 1694-5 and 1709-10. Their son David was born April 27, 1705, and married Mary Duyckink. Their son James, born May 12, 1742, was a colonel in the Revolution, and married Gertrude Neilson. Rev. John Neilson Abeel, D.D., was their son, who was born in 1768 at New York City, and married Mary Stillé. They were the parents of Rev. Dr. Gustavus Abeel, who was born June 6, 1801, in New York City, and married Mary Jane Van Nest. Their son Gustavus N. Abeel was born January 25, 1841, in Geneva, N. Y., and married Margaret Hall. Their son, Neilson Abeel, was born August 22, 1872, at Newark, New Jersey.

He attended the Newark public schools, from which, in early manhood, he went into the employ of the Celluloid Company of New York. While thus occupied, he took up the study of law at the New York Law School, and after graduating was admitted to the New Jersey bar in 1898. He was appointed Assistant City Attorney in 1900, and held this office for three years. He was an ardent worker in the Democratic ranks, earnestly desiring purer politics and a higher ideal for his party. His religious affiliations were with the Episcopalians, and he was a member of Trinity Church, Newark. He was an enthusiastic member of the Society and at the annual meeting in 1906 he was elected Vice-President of the Holland Society for Essex Co., N. J., which office he held at his death. He married Nina Fessenden Jackson, who survived him with their three children, Neilson, Jr., Elizabeth Wolcott, and Margaret Hall. The family residence was at 15 Fulton St., Newark.

ROBERT BENTLEY BRINKERHOFF. Elected March 31, 1892, died May 9, 1907, was the son of Gen. Roeliff Brinkerhoff and Mary Bentley, born April 19, 1854, at Mansfield, Ohio, and named for his grandfather Gen. Robert Bentley, who fought in the War of 1812.

He was descended from Joris Dircksen Brinkerhoff, born about 1607, who came from Flushing, Holland, in 1638, and Susanna Dubbels. Their son, Hendrick Jorisz, was born in Holland about 1630 and married Classie Cornelis Boomgaert. Their son Jacobus was born in Bergen Co., N. J., baptized March 29, 1685, at Flatbush, and married Agnitie Banta. Their son Joris was born October 9, 1719, in Bergen Co., and married Martina Bogaert. Their son Roeliff was born November 10, 1748, in Bergen Co., and married Baeltie Demarest. Their son George R. was born February 19, 1785, at Gettysburgh, Penn., and married Jacomyntie Bevier. Their son Roeliff was born June 28, 1828, in Cayuga Co., N. Y., and married Mary Bentley and they resided in Mansfield, Ohio. Robert B. Brinkerhoff graduated from the high school at Mansfield in 1873, and, after passing through the law school at Cincinnati, was admitted to the bar, entering upon the practice of his profession in his home town.

In 1883 he was appointed Deputy Commissioner of Insurance and served until 1885, when he removed to the city of New York. Here he became an attorney for the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Insurance Company, which position he retained until his death.

In 1890 he married Grace Brinkerhoff Cochran, granddaughter of Hon. Aaron Brinkerhoff, for many years comptroller of the city of Brooklyn, who survives him. When elected to the Society he resided at 179 Schermerhorn St., Brooklyn; his last residence was at 174 W. 95th St., N. Y. City.

WILLIAM JOHN FRYER. Elected April 6, 1886, died June 2, 1907, was born in 1842 at Albany, his father being the leading dry goods merchant of that city and his mother one of the old Livingston family, his birth giving him admission to the best social circles.

He studied architecture and engineering in the office of Willis & Ogden, and, coming to New York in 1865, connected himself with J. L. Jackson & Co., afterwards the Jackson Architectural Iron Works. Afterwards he became a partner in the Ætna Iron Works, which fabricated a large part of the structural material for the Third Avenue Elevated Railroad. He soon became interested in fireproof construction and claimed that he and J. G. Johnston were the real inventors of the hollow-tile fireproof block. In 1880, he became prominent in urging a complete revision of the building law and worked to that end with his colleagues, Messrs. Mettam and Bloodgood, and brought it before the Building Bureau of New York City. They cooperated in taking it to the Legislature, but it was not passed till 1885. Mr. Fryer was chairman of the Building Law Commission of 1892, and also a member of the Revision Commission of 1899, that produced the present Building Code. More recently, as chairman of the Board of Examiners, he reviewed questions on appeal relating to building construction in the five boroughs. In this body he was the delegate of the Society of Architectural Iron Manufacturers. In 1885 he was appointed Superintendent of Repairs for U. S. buildings in New York City, and, while holding this position, he wrote a pamphlet advocating the construction of a group of government buildings between Bowling Green and Battery Park, which was followed by the erection of the new Custom House. During his long career as a consulting architect and engineer his private practice was large.

He compiled the Laws and Ordinances Relating to Buildings in New York, and The Tenement House Laws Relating to N. Y. C., and wrote A Review of the Development of Structural Iron, A Review of Ornamental Ironwork, The N. Y. Building Law, and various papers and pamphlets.

He made his summer home in New Providence, N. J., where he spent his last days and where his remains were laid to rest in a village cemetery.

He was a member of the St. Nicholas Society and of Kane Lodge, F. & A. M.

He leaves a widow, a sister, Mrs. Daniel Manning, and three brothers, Charles, Robert, and Alexander; Robert being also a member of the Holland Society. The Record and Guide of June 8, 1907, contains an appreciative sketch of his career with a portrait.

JACOB LEFFERTS VAN PELT. Elected March 26, 1891; died June 8, 1907. He was about seventy-one or seventy-two years of age when he died in the Sunshine Rest Home, Bensonhurst, Brooklyn, N. Y. About three months previously he had been found ill and alone in his farmhouse, at 86th Street and De Bruyn's lane, where he had lived a recluse for fifty years. His farm was in the center of the Van Pelt Manor district, but he had opposed the development of the section and refused to sell his farm. He was wealthy, eccentric, and a bachelor. From infancy he had displayed a peculiar aversion to women, which he carried to the grave. Although he frequently walked through the streets of New Utrecht, he seldom went into the business sections of Brooklyn or New York, and was always shy and refused to talk to strangers. He was a diligent collector of medals and an enthusiastic admirer of the Volunteer Firemen's Association; and following these predilections, decorated with a number of his medals, he would always head the annual parade. Every morning he displayed weather signals on a pole near his home and his predictions were generally correct.

Lack of care undermined his health and it became necessary to remove him to the Sunshine Rest Home. He is survived by a brother, Townsend C. Van Pelt, and two sisters, Mrs. George Shields and Mrs. Van Brunt. Another brother, John Van Der Bilt Van Pelt, died before him. All three brothers were members of the Holland Society (see Year Book, 1904, p. 269). The first American ancestor was Aert Teunisz Van Pelt, who came here from Luyck, Holland, in 1663.

FRANCIS CONKLIN HUYCK. Elected January 30, 1890; died July 4, 1907; was born at Rensselaerville, July 10, 1838, and lived there about forty.

three years. He became a member of the firm of Huyck & Waterbury, manufacturers of paper-maker's felt. About 1881, he came to Albany and the firm was changed to Huyck & Argersinger, conducting the mill at Kenwood. The business continued until 1894 when fire destroyed the plant. Mr. Huyck then moved to Rensselaer, and the firm became F. C. Huyck & Sons. Under the direction of Mr. Huyck the business prospered greatly and a considerable addition to the plant was made shortly before his death.

He was a member of the Fort Orange Club, the Republican Club, and the Chamber of Commerce of Albany, and also the Lotus Club of New York. His Albany residence, where he died, was at State St.

He married Emily Niles of Rensselaerville, where he maintained his summer home, and where his funeral services were held in the Presbyterian Church. He did much for the upbuilding of his birthplace, donating a hall and a library. His surviving children are Edmund Niles Huyck, Mrs. Lewis A. Eldridge, John Niles Huyck, Frank C. Huyck, Jr., and Emily Niles Huyck.

Mr. Huyck was eighth in descent from John Huyghen, of Wesel, on the Rhine near the Netherlands, who came over in the Sea Gull with his brother-in-law Peter Minuit, a director of the West India Co., about May, 1626. His son, Andries Hanse Huygh, was born in New Amsterdam before 1639 and afterwards lived at Albany and Kinderhook, where he obtained a grant of land from King James II. His son, Lambert Huyck, was born at Albany in 1674, and was deacon in the church at Kinderhook, 1722-3. His son, Andries L., was born at Albany, February 27, 1709, and died in 1771 or later. His son, John A., was born at Kinderhook, baptized June 27, 1730. His son Solomon was born September 1, 1770, at Schodack, and died at Westerlo June 15, 1848. His son, John S., was born January 25, 1800, at Westerlo.

and died October 25, 1872, at Rensselaerville. His son was Francis Conklin Huyck. Among the papers which printed obituary notices, one or more contained Mr. Huyck's portrait.

JOHN LANSING. Elected December 20, 1886; died July 4, 1907; son of Judge Robert Lansing and Maria Hubbard; was born November 18, 1832, in Watertown, N. Y., where he spent his whole life, except while a student at Poughkeepsie and in foreign travel.

He studied law in the offices of George C. Sherman and Alexander Wilson and was admitted to the bar when twenty-one years of age. From 1855 he was the senior partner of Lansing & Sherman; his associate until 1863 being the late George H. Sherman, and Charles A. Sherman being a member from 1860 until the dissolution of partnership in 1878. For the next twelve years Mr. Lansing practiced alone and then took his only son Robert into partnership. He was prominent in reorganizing the Jefferson County Bar Association and became its president. He also served upon the Board of Education, and as city attorney. For more than fifty years he was a leading member of the First Presbyterian Church and for the last twenty years of his life was president of the board of directors of the Jefferson County Orphans' home. Mr. Lansing was held in the highest esteem by all who knew his integrity, charity, and sterling worth. He married Maria, daughter of Judge Edwin Dodge, of Gouverneur, whose death occurred about a year before his.

He is survived by a son, Robert, and two daughters, Emma and Kate, all of Watertown. The Daily Standard, a few days after his death, published the eulogy pronounced by Rev. Dr. Dulles at the funeral services.

Mr. Lansing traced his ancestry back to Gerrit Fredericksen Lansing and Elizabeth Hendricks who came to New Amsterdam from the town of Hasselt, near Zwolle, in the Province of Overysel, Holland, in 1661. Their son was Gerrit, and later steps are Jacob, his son, Gerrit J., his son, Sanders, his son, and Robert, his son, who married Maria Hubbard, and whose son was John Lansing.

JOHN HENRY SUTPHIN. Elected March 28, 1889; died July 21, 1907; was born in Hicksville, Long Island, August 25, 1835. He was the son of John Sutphin and Margaret Wyckoff. His father owned the stage line between Jamaica and Pearl Street, New York, and made daily trips with a big four-horse stage. When the railroad was extended from Jamaica to Hicksville he became its passenger agent, assistant superintendent, and general manager. The father of John Sutphin, senior, was Dietrich, who settled near Flatbush and with his son was owner of a large tract in Jamaica about Washington and Prospect Streets. Dietrich Sutphin traced his ancestry back to Dietrich Sutphin, of Holland, who came here in 1640 and settled in Brooklyn. John Henry Sutphin married Caroline M., daughter of Hewlett Smith. She survived him with their children, Harry and Howard Sutphin, Mrs. L. M. Bowden, Mrs. Walter V. Cranford, and Mrs. Clarence Steele. The family residence was 432 Fulton St., Jamaica, and there he met his end after less than two weeks' illness.

He was educated at Erasmus Hall High School, Brooklyn, and graduated when eighteen. At twenty he took up his permanent residence in Jamaica. In early life he learned the trade of a wheelwright and worked for Smith Crossman, and also helped his father for a time in the management of his stage line. He developed political leanings and soon took an active part in politics, which continued through most of his life. His position, as leader of the Democratic Party, was remarkable for the support which he so frequently drew from the Republicans in his campaigns for County Clerk of Queens County, and which continued him in that office from January 1, 1870, for thirty-one years. His official record was worthy of his honest pride and that of his fellow citizens, and he occupied a most enviable and unique position in the regard of the legal profession and of all with whom his duties brought him into contact. He was always ready to help the inexperienced practitioner through the difficulties which beset him, and he made all those who transacted business with the County Clerk's office his friends, as indeed was generally the case with those whom he met in the other walks of life. His ability to make and retain friends was an important element in his political success, especially since it was based upon a kind heart and a generous, friendly disposition. In fact, this generosity and friendliness, accompanied by liberal gifts to those in need of assistance, frequently in cases that were not known till long afterwards, brought the fortune, which he had acquired in a long and successful career, down to a very modest estate for his widow and children.

His first office was Justice of the Peace for the town of Jamaica, to which he was elected when twenty-one years of age. While he held this office and as one of the town board, he was most energetic in response to the demands of the Government upon the breaking out of the Civil War, and the excellent record made by Queens County in promptly sending its quota of troops was largely the result of his labors. In 1864, at the close of his term as Justice, during which he continued his study of the law and was admitted to the bar, he was appointed Deputy County Clerk by Robert Burroughs, succeeding the latter six years afterward. He was also school trustee for many years.

One of his notable political triumphs was in 1894, when he was said to be the only Democrat elected in the rush of a Republican landslide. For twenty-seven years he was chairman of the Queens County Democratic Committee, and for a similar period member of the Democratic State Committee. He was a close acquaintance of President Cleveland and of Governors Hoffman, Seymour, Tilden, Flower, and Hill, and was frequently in consultation with them concerning political affairs.

A notable characteristic was his generosity, and for many years his large income was only commensurate with his benefactions, and a multitude of persons and not a few institutions profited by his sympathetic open-handedness. Many a man, in humble circumstances and struggling to establish a home of his own, when he found it necessary to record a deed or other instrument and asked the cost of it, was cheered by the smiling reply: "Nothing, my dear fellow. You are entirely welcome to it."

In the conduct of his office, Mr. Sutphin was a marvel of efficiency and executive ability, and the lawyers who transacted business with the Queens County Clerk were outspoken in their praise and commendation. He saw the various functions and duties which had devolved upon him increase and multiply most impressively, and he kept well abreast of everything.

He was a trustee of the Jamaica Savings Bank for its first twenty years of existence, then its vice-president, and two years later its president. He was one of the founders of the Jamaica Bank and for ten years was its president, until it merged with the Bank of Long Island. He was largely instrumental in bringing the Normal School to Jamaica, and was made a member of its board of managers, and held this office until it was taken over by New York City under consolidation.

Mr. Sutphin was fond of sports and was a member of the Rifle and Gun Club and the Jamaica Club. He was also a member of the Jamaica Council of the Order of Royal Arcanum.

His funeral was the largest and most impressive ever seen in Jamaica, the public ceremonies being in the First Presbyterian Church, conducted by its pastor, Rev. J. Howard Hobbs. The trustees of the Jamaica Savings Bank were honorary pallbearers and every organization in Jamaica was represented; the officials of Queens and Nassau Counties were present and there were many from Manhattan and Brooklyn and from Suffolk County. The eulogies of his pastor found an echo in many hearts.

JOHN HUNN VOORHEES. Elected February 29, 1888; died October 14, 1907, at Aston, North Bend, Hamilton County, Ohio; the funeral services being held at Spring Grove Cemetery Chapel. He is descended from Jan Lucasse Voorhees, through his son Isaac, whose wife's name was Sara; their son John married Ruth Stockton, whose son Samuel Stockton was the father of John H. Voorhees. The latter was born in Maryland in 1819 and in due course became a student at Princeton College. After graduation, he took up the law and at the time of joining The Holland Society was in active practice in Washington, his chosen place of residence. His professional and social standing were excellent and his enthusiastic support of the Society's objects was noticeable. Within a few months after his election he joined the other Holland Society members who took the trip to Holland in 1888, although he was not far short of seventy at the time. He was proposed for membership by his cousin, Charles Holbert Voorhees, who referred to him as John Hunter Voorhees, in a letter accompanying the application. He moved to North Bend, Ohio, where he spent his last years, writing occasionally to the Society in grateful appreciation of the souvenirs and Year Books, and expressing his regret that distance prevented him from taking part in its annual meetings and banquets. He left a widow, Elizabeth Warder Voorhees.

HENRY MARTIN POLHEMUS. Elected May 19, 1887; died October 23, 1907. When elected, he was a partner in Gridley & Co., of 87 Maiden Lane, and was proposed for membership by his cousin, Abraham Polhemus. He was a descendant of Johannes Theodorus Polhemus, who was born about 1598, and in early life became a minister of the Dutch Reformed Church in the Palatinate. Driven thence by persecution in 1635, he was sent to Brazil in 1636 by the Dutch West India Co. and remained at Itamarca until 1654, when he came to New Amsterdam. He accepted a call to Flatbush, whence he moved to Brooklyn in 1665, where his services were continued until his decease, June 9, 1676. He married Catherine Van Werven, who survived him.

Theodorus, eldest son of the foregoing, was born in the island of Itamarca, Brazil; married, October 14, 1677, Aertie, daughter of Teunis Gysberse Bogaert, and before 1692 moved to Jamaica, L. I., and died there in 1722. Abraham, youngest son of Theodorus, was born 1697 and married Gertrude Remsen. Abraham (Jr.), their son, married Margaret Schenck and settled in Newtown, L. I., where he died September 8, 1809, in his eighty-third year. Abraham (III.), of the next generation, married, June 8, 1771, Aletta Rapalye, and died May 24, 1831, in his eightieth year. Abraham (IV.) married, in 1811, Cornelia, daughter of Jacobus Suydam. He died August 28, 1843, in his fifty-ninth year, leaving his son, James Suydam Polhemus, who was born April 27, 1815, and married Harriet Martin, daughter of Bradley Martin, of Avon, N. Y. They were the parents of Henry Martin Polhemus, who was born January 3, 1857, and died at his residence in Astoria, L. I., in his fifty-first year.

JASPER VAN WORMER. Elected October 25, 1886; died November 4, 1907; was proposed for membership by G. A. Van Allen, president of the First National Bank of Albany, with a letter of cordial recommendation, testifying also to the high esteem of all who knew him. He was born in Amsterdam, New York, May 23, 1822, and was a son of Peter Van Wormer, who was born at the same place in 1797; grandson of Casper Van Wormer, who was born at Athens, or Loonenberg, near the Hudson, in 1770; great-grandson of Peter Van Wormer, born at the same place in 1749; and great-great-grandson of (probably) Cornelius Van Wormer, who was among the landowners at Catskill in 1720.

Upon reaching his majority, Mr. Van Wormer came to Albany, and on September 20, 1848, married Mary Louise Bridges of that city. In 1847 he became associated with Michael McGarvey in the retailing of stoves, (they had been fellow workers in the same shop and at the same bench,) opening a small shop at 12 Green Street in the name of Van Wormer & McGarvey. In 1866 they built a foundry and began the manufacture of stoves. After Mr. McGarvey's death in 1876 his son was taken into the firm, and after his death the business continued until 1905, when Mr. Van Wormer retired.

Upon the organization of the Albany County Savings Bank in 1874, he was elected vice-president, and in 1883 president, holding the latter office until his death. He was also a director of the Merchants National Bank from 1877 until its absorption by the Commercial Bank. He was one of the incorporators of the Albany Trust Co., being succeeded by one of his sons on his retirement. He served as inspector of elections of the New York Central R. R. Co. for over twenty years, being succeeded in this also by one of his sons.

He was deeply interested in religious matters, being a life member of the First Lutheran Church, one of the incorporators of the Young Men's Christian Association in 1867, and one of the nine trustees on its first board. He was treasurer of this board from 1886 until the time of his death. He left a widow, three daughters, Mrs. N. S.

Walls, Mrs. George C. Baker, and Emma Van Wormer, and two sons, William H. and Edwin Van Wormer.

JOSEPH DWIGHT VAN VALKENBURGH. Elected March 26, 1891; died November 4, 1907; was born in Greene, Chenango Co., N. Y., on September 16, 1849. His first American ancestor was Lambert Van Valkenburgh, who came from Amsterdam, Holland, and was in New Amsterdam in January, 1644, and in 1652 lived in Fort Orange, now Albany. His son Jochem Lambertse was born in New Amsterdam on November 4, 1646, and married (first) Eva Hendrickse Vrooman. Their son Bartholomew was born in Albany in 1680; his son Jochem born there in 1702, and his son Claudius born there April 14, 1747. Adam, son of Claudius, was born November 23, 1775, at Schodack, and became one of the leading farmers of that section. He married Jennie Backus, of Columbia Co., and died in 1859. Their son, Joseph D., one of ten children was born at Schodack on August 24, 1822. He married Maria Wheeler and became the father of six children. He attended common school in his native town until his parents moved to Greene, in Chenango Co., and there made farming his principal occupation. In 1851 he went to California and for five years made that state his home, operating a sawmill and working extensively in a gold mine. He then returned to his former home where he died June 4, 1895. He was a Democrat and popular in the community, being elected supervisor and filling other minor offices. His son, Joseph Dwight Van Valkenburgh, Jr., received a good education in the public schools of Greene, worked for some months as a keeper in the state prison at Sing Sing, and thence went to Auburn, where he filled a similar position. Resigning this position, he returned to Greene and took up insurance, obtaining the agency of La Confiance Ins. Co. of Paris, France. Three years later he allied himself with the American Central Ins. Co. of St. Louis, Mo., and for fourteen years was its general agent for the Eastern States. About the time of joining The Holland Society his partnership was Van Valkenburgh & Hall and maintained offices at 71 Wall St., N. Y., and later at 33 Pine Street. For the last five years of his life he gave up active business and went back to the old farm, which he stocked up in accordance with present-day ideas and managed with renewed zest. He still kept in touch with business by placing local insurance and acting as president of the village water company in Greene, and thus reached the close of life without losing its relish. His end was caused by acute Bright's disease.

In 1875 he married Emma S., daughter of George W. Boynton, of Greene, who died June 8, 1888. Among their children was Dr. Raymond H. Van Valkenburgh, of Schenectady, now a member of The Holland Society. In 1888 he married Nellie G. Mears, of New Haven, Conn., who survived him, as did also his children, Ralph D., Raymond H., Helen S., Emma J., Richard M., Edward A., Gertrude M., and Joseph D.

Mr. Van Valkenburgh attended the Congregational Church, and was a member of Eastern Light Lodge, No. 126 F. & A. M. of Greene. He was identified with the Democratic party, but except for serving as village trustee, sought no political preferment.

ABRAM GILES BROWER. Elected December 22, 1887; died November 8, 1907; was born May 18, 1840, in Schenectady, N. Y. He was a descendant of Willem Hendrickse Brouwer, who settled in New Amsterdam about 1650 and died in 1668. His son Hendrick married Maria Pieterse Borsboom and died in 1707. Their son Peter was born in 1699, married Lena Fonda and died in 1758. Their son Giles was born in 1747, married Maria Bratt and died in 1800. Their son Peter was born in 1780, married Ann Catherine Stevens and died in 1852. Their son Giles was born in 1815, married Helen Vrooman and died in 1861, and Abram Giles Brower was their son.

Dr. Brower attended a boarding school near Albany, from which he went to Union College, graduating in 1859. He then studied medicine under Dr. Alexander Vedder in Schenectady, later took a course at Albany Medical College, and, after graduating, went to the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons, from which he also graduated. In 1861 he came to Utica and began to practice and the same year married Jennie Helen, daughter of Nicholas F. Vedder, one of the most prominent merchants of the city. After two years he gave up practicing medicine and devoted himself to the management of his father-in-law's large business interests. His great business capacity stood him in good stead and success generally attended his shrewd foresight and close attention to business affairs.

He was a director and vice-president of the Utica and Black River R. R., a director and an officer of the Utica Gaslight Co., an important member of the Utica Water Works Co. and its president during a period of notable expansion, a director and member of the executive board of the Utica Steam Cotton Mills, in which he was largely interested, a director of the Oneida National Bank for about twenty years, vice-president and director of the U. S. Transportation Co. with its fleet of freighters in the Great Lakes, president and director of the Brower & Love Bros. Co. of Indianapolis, and interested in other important commercial and financial ventures.

He was a great traveler, spending considerable time in the Holland of his ancestors and interesting himself much in its history. He visited the family of a distant cousin in Hoorn in 1887. The Dutch Reformed Church found Dr. Brower an active member and an efficient worker on its behalf.

His services as chairman of the building committee of its trustees were memorable. He was a member of the St. Nicholas Society, the New York Yacht Club, the Atlantic Yacht Club, the Fort Schuyler Club, the Sons of the Revolution, Utica Lodge, No. 47 F. & A. M., and of the Adirondack League Club, in the preserve of which he had a cottage, on Bisby Lake.

Dr. Brower was a man of fine presence, physically and mentally well balanced, well informed, an entertaining talker and considerate of others. He was a careful student, a close observer of all about him, and devoted to his home and family. His residence was at 306 Genesee St., Utica, but his death was at his cottage on Saranac Lake, whither he had gone for treatment of pulmonary trouble, which had followed upon increasing diabetic and cardiac degeneration.

His widow survived him, also his three children, J. Florence, A. Vedder, and Egmont C. Brower, objects of affectionate sympathy and regard of an unusually wide circle of friends and neighbors.

HUBERT VAN WAGENEN. Elected October 25, 1886; died January 12, 1908, at his residence, 36 East 53d St., N. Y. City. He was born April 15, 1849, and, on being proposed for membership by President Van Vorst, sent a copy of the Van Wageningen genealogy, with marked references, as his credentials. He was always a resident of New York and his business as a merchant was at 159 Duane St. He was closely connected with the Collegiate Dutch Reformed Church, holding office for many years and serving as Deacon and Elder until his death.

He married Cornelia Louderback, who survived him, with their two sons, Hubert, Jr., an architect at 44 West 39th St., and Edward.

JOHN HAYDEN VISSCHER. Elected December 22, 1887; died February 1, 1908, at 427 Clermont Avenue Brooklyn, N. Y., after nearly four years of illness. He was born in 1841 at Visscher's Ferry, Saratoga Co., N. Y., and had lived for forty-five years in Brooklyn, forty of which were spent at his late residence. For most of that time he was connected with the Oswego Starch Company, more recently having taken up the wholesale coffee business in Manhattan.

He was a past master and trustee of Altair Lodge F. & A. M., and had been president of the Brooklyn Masonic Veteran Association. For twenty-five years he had been an active member of the Unity Unitarian Church. He also belonged to the Brooklyn Council, Royal Arcanum, the Loyal Additional Association, Columbia Council, and the National Provident Union.

He was descended from Harmen Bastiaanse Visscher, born 1619, married Hester Tjerkse, who was in New Amsterdam as early as 1649 and soon after came to Beverwyck. Their son Nanning, born 1672, married Alida Vinhagen; their son Nicolaas, born 1705, married Annatie Tymesen; their son Eldert, born 1753, married Geertruy Fort; their son Johannes (John E.), born 1790, married Rachel Fort; their son Nicholas F., born 1816, married Sarah Hayden; and their son was John Hayden Visscher.

The first Visscher in this country was an immigrant from Holland, to whom Fisher's Island was given very early in the seventeenth century.

Mr. Visscher is survived by his wife, Georgia F. King, a son, Charles R. H., and two daughters, Grace A. and Florence A.

DOUW HENRY FONDA. Elected October 25, 1886; died February 23, 1908; was born September 10, 1831, at Fonda, N. Y. He was a descendant of Jellis Douwesen Fonda, who was at Beverwyck as early as 1654. After receiving a common school education he engaged in railroad business. Then came a short period of clerking in New York which he dropped to become ticket agent at Palatine Bridge. In 1853 he became teller of the Spraker Bank at Canajoharie and two years later became cashier. Coming to Albany in 1865, he formed the wholesale drug firm of Fonda & Bagley, of which he became sole proprietor in 1877; in 1879 he made it D. H. Fonda & Co., and in 1899 the Douw H. Fonda Drug Company, of which Mr. Fonda has been president ever since. For a year ill health had prevented him from taking an active part in business. His political career was limited to serving two terms as school commissioner. He was a member of Temple Lodge No. 14 F. & A. M. His first wife was Mary A. French, of Canajoharie, and his second wife was Ellen A. Barker, of Barre, Vt., who survived him. His home was at 24 South Hawk Street, Albany, N. Y., where his last days were spent.

JOHN WILLIAM VAN HOESSEN. Elected April 30, 1885; died February 26, 1908, at his residence in Nyack, N. Y., where he lived with his brother, George M. Van Hoesen, in quiet and retirement, after spending most of his life in New York. His office was at 45 Broadway for many years. He was a descendant of Jan Franse Van Hoesen, an early settler of New Amsterdam and Beverwyck, who married Volkje Jurriaanse and died about 1667.

PETER DEYO. Elected March 28, 1889; died March 8, 1908; was born November 16, 1852, at New Paltz, Ulster Co., N. Y., the sixth in descent from Christian Deyo (or Doyau), who came to Kingston about 1660 and signed the New Paltz settlement agreement with the Indians in 1666, the lineage being as follows: Peter Deyo, son of Ira Deyo, son of Peter Deyo, son of Jonathan Deyo, son of Abraham Deyo, Jr., son of Abraham Deyo, son of the Huguenot patentee.

After spending his early years on his father's farm and finishing his school work in the New Paltz Academy, in 1872 he became connected with the Home National Bank of Ellenville, N. Y., returning five years later to enter the Huguenot National Bank in his native town. In 1882 he accepted a position in the Poughkeepsie National Bank of which he became teller.

When, in 1890, he resigned his position to go to West Superior, Wis., to organize and become president of the Douglas County Bank of that city, his fellow members of the Holland Society living in Poughkeepsie and vicinity, and some from New Paltz, gave him a dinner at the Nelson House on March 12th, to express their esteem for him and their regret at his departure. (This dinner was the precursor of those annual dinners at Poughkeepsie that are now part of the regular observances of the Society.)

On his return from West Superior, he was for a short time a special Bank Examiner with headquarters in Albany, and in the following year was appointed Secretary of the New York State Board of Tax Commissioners, a position which he held through all political changes and until his death, a period of twelve years and upwards. His work was carried on, in spite of failing health, until about three weeks before his death, which overtook him at Albany, the interment being at New Paltz. His position brought him into personal contact with many of the leading men of the State, and no one was more widely and favorably known than he. His efficiency and fidelity, with unflinching courtesy, a genial address and particularly cheerful disposition, brought him hosts of friends and many tributes to his expert knowledge.

On June 1, 1881, he married Ida F. Woolsey of New Paltz, who died in November, 1896. He left two children, Ruth Lynda Deyo, who has achieved great repute as a pianist in this country and in Europe, and Morton Lindholm Deyo, a cadet in Annapolis Naval Academy.

DANIEL BENNETT ST. JOHN ROOSA. Elected December 23, 1885; died March 8, 1908; was born April 4, 1838, in Bethel, Sullivan County, N. Y. Aldert Hymanse Roosa, the American ancestor of the family, was born 1621, died 1679, married Wyntje Ariense; their son Jon Aldertse Roosa, born 1651, married Hillegond Willemse Van Buren; their son Aldert Janse Roosa, born 1692, married Rebecca Schepmoes; their son Abraham, born 1718, married Elizabeth Rutsen; their son Isaac A., born 1751, a lieutenant in the Continental Army, married Catherine Moule, died 1803; their son John Roosa, born 1781, married Dolly Duryea, died 1854; their son Charles Baker Roosa, born 1811, married Amelia Elmer Foster, and died 1888; and their son was Daniel Bennett St. John Roosa.

The commission issued to Ensign Isaac A. Roosa and the appointment of John Roosa over Sullivan County may be found in the Society office. The Trustees, at their meeting on March 12, 1908, requested one of their number to prepare an adequate memorial for presentation at the annual meeting of the Society. They then adopted the following minute:

The Holland Society, and especially its Board of Trustees, have met with a serious loss in the death of Dr. Daniel Bennett St. John Roosa on March 8, 1908, and realize a personal affliction in this abrupt sundering of the ties of many years, recalling the friendship that was inseparable from his genial disposition, the humor that bubbled forth irrepressibly upon so many occasions, and the enthusiasm with which he performed his allotted tasks. He was elected to the Society December 23, 1885, and was soon an ardent supporter of its objects. His election to this Board was in 1892 and in 1895 he was made President. His administration of that office and his easy and humorous urbanity in presiding at the annual dinner are episodes of most agreeable recollection. His term as Trustee, the fourth to which he had been successively chosen, was about to end and the Nominating Committee had unhesitatingly requested him to serve a fifth term, knowing well how impossible it would be to fill his place with one equally acceptable to his associates and valuable to the Society. His labor at the head of the Committee for Erecting a Statue to William the Silent will not be forgotten, and his successors in that work will complete it in loving memory of their lamented leader. The Secretary is ordered to inscribe this memorial upon his records and to send a suitably engrossed copy to the family of the honored dead.

LOUIS YOUNGLOVE SCHERMERHORN. Elected March 26, 1891; died April 2, 1908; was born November 18, 1840, and was named after his uncle Louis Younglove. He was sixth in descent from Jacob Janse Schermerhooren, who was born in Waterland, Holland, about 1620, came to Beverwyck in 1634, married Jannetie Cornelise Van Voorhoudt, and died at Albany in 1688. Their son Jacob Jacobse Schermerhoorn, born about 1662, married Gerrutje Van Buren; their son Jacob Schermerhorn, Jr., was baptized at Albany December 27, 1685, and married, June 23, 1714, Antie Van Vechten; their son Cornelis was baptized at Albany January 1, 1719, and married, October 22, 1742, Maria Winne; their son Jacob Cornelis was born May 25, 1743, married (first), March 29, 1762, Gerritje, daughter of Johannes Schermerhorn, and died May 5, 1822, at Schodack Landing, N. Y.; their son Cornelius I. was born August 15, 1764, married, November 19, 1785, Elizabeth Mondain, and died August 25, 1828, at Schodack Landing; their son Barent C. was born January 28, 1804, married, January 28, 1827, Catharine Witbeck, and died March 10, 1872, at Troy, N. Y.; their son was Louis Y. Schermerhorn. He married, December 4, 1866, Romie B., daughter of Dr. John Bovie and Julia Holden.

Mr. Schermerhorn was a civil engineer, connected with the U. S. Engineer Corps at Philadelphia, residing at 1428 Arch St., when elected to membership, and in 1903 was made vice-president of the Society for Philadelphia, holding that office until his death. He was president of the American Dredging Co., a director of the local Maritime Exchange, and a member of the Philadelphia Board of Trade. His death was occasioned by Bright's disease and left a noticeable vacancy in the list of vice-presidents, which can not be filled until other Philadelphians are added to the list of members in Mr. Schermerhorn's place. His own place can never be filled and the home circle and that wider ring of relatives and friends is forever sundered, but his memory is ever cherished.
